HONORS DAY 1993

Dr. Mona J. Gardner

Adlai H. Rust Professor of Insurance/Finance
Director, Division of Business and Economics

There's a saying that: "The mediocre teacher tells. The good teacher explains. The superior teacher demonstrates. The great teacher inspires."

Mona J. Gardner is a great teacher—an inspiration to her students and colleagues. Her sustained commitment to excellence in teaching, scholarship, and service are recognized today as IWU bestows on her its 1993 DuPont Award for Teaching Excellence. Gardner's skill in the classroom also was recognized this year, when she was a finalist in the IWU Student Senate Professor of the Year evaluation, and in 1985, when she earned the top teaching honor at Illinois State University.

A key to Gardner's teaching skill is her commitment to students, which goes far beyond the classroom. An interesting dimension of Gardner's career is that for four years she worked in residential programs at Syracuse University and the University of Maryland-Baltimore County Campus, where she managed everything from a 500-student residence hall to a university-wide housing program.

That real-world management experience, as well as her strong academic background, helped prepare Gardner for the intellectual challenges of teaching a wide range of rigorous courses, including financial management, investments, property/liability insurance, financial markets, financial institutions, advanced financial theory, and managing diversity. Gardner is an innovative teacher, who offers IWU students unique and timely courses, such as Financial Scandals, a special topics course examining the shenanigans that rocked Wall Street and Washington in the 1980s and early 1990s.

Gardner earned a bachelor of arts degree in English, Magna Cum Laude, from Southern Methodist University and a master of arts degree in higher education administration from Columbia University. She was awarded a second master's degree—a master of business administration degree, with a major in finance—from the University of Cincinnati, and a doctorate in finance, also from the University of Cincinnati.

Her career has included teaching positions at the University of Cincinnati and Miami University (Ohio). She served as an assistant and associate professor of finance at Illinois State University from 1980 to 1988, when she joined Illinois Wesleyan as a professor of finance and head of the Department of Business Administration.

Gardner is the author or co-author of five books, including "Managing Financial Institutions: An Asset/Liability Approach", which will enter its third edition later this year. She also has written articles for professional journals, as well as book reviews, case studies, and computer software. Gardner frequently presents papers at professional meetings of national and regional groups.

Gardner is a respected researcher, who has been awarded grants from universities, government agencies, and other sources to study thought-provoking subjects, such as minority banking and corporate social responsibility. She won Illinois State University's Outstanding Researcher Award in 1984.

Public service is an important dimension of Gardner's career. She has served on the McLean County 21st Century Committee; as an officer in the Women's Division of the McLean County Chamber of Commerce; as a director of the Bloomington-Normal Symphony Society; and as a chair or member of several faculty committees at IWU.

Gardner is a member of several professional organizations, such as the Academy of Financial Services, which she now serves as president; American Risk and Insurance Association; Eastern Finance Association; Financial Management Association; Midwest Finance Association, for which she is currently first vice president; and the Southern Finance Association.

This program is dedicated to the Seniors and to the students who have earned scholastic and activity recognition.
