"THE BIG MAC ATTACK MESSAGE"

Professor Martin Hulce, Creighton University

10:00 a.m. Anderson Auditorium (C101)

Professor Martin Hulce received his B.S. in chemistry from Butler University in Indianapolis, Indiana in 1978. Graduate studies with Professor Gary H. Posner at the Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, Maryland led to M.A. and Ph.D. degrees in organic chemistry in 1980 and 1983, respectively. After two years as a research chemist in the Agricultural Chemicals Department of E.I. du Pont de Nemours and Co., Inc. in Wilmington, Delaware, he joined the faculty of the University of Maryland, Baltimore County, as an Assistant Professor of Chemistry and Biochemistry. In 1991, he joined the faculty of Creighton University, in Omaha, Nebraska, where he is Professor of Chemistry and holds a secondary appointment in Creighton's School of Medicine as Professor of Biomedical Sciences. A recipient of the Robert F. Kennedy Memorial Student Award for Teaching Achievement, Professor Hulce is a divisional officer of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, and a member of the Nebraska Biomedical Research Infrastructure Network steering committee. He has published extensively in major chemistry and biomedical journals and his research, which spans a broad range from synthetic organic chemistry to medicinal chemistry, has been funded by several major competitive grants.
