We're Here to Help!

Dear IWU Titan:

Welcome to the start of a new academic year at IWU! Career connections are vital to your future success. These connections begin at the start of your college career. Career center staff, university alumni, faculty, employers, parents, and your peers are some of those individuals with whom you can and will connect. What I would like to propose is that you do the following during your time at IWU: Explore. Act. Achieve. It will ensure your future success!

EXPLORE

Career Counseling – Unsure about what you want to study?

Unclear about what you can do with your major? We can help. Set up an appointment with one of our staff to explore the options available to you. Career assessments, informational interviews, and job shadowing experiences are just some of the activities that might help you in your decision making. Drop by our office on the second floor of the Minor Myers, jr. Welcome Center or call (309) 556-3071 to set up an appointment.

ACT

Internships – There are a variety of ways to explore the type of work you might like to pursue. Externships, research, summer employment. But internships are often what employers are seeking when evaluating candidates. Internships allow you to apply what you're learning in the classroom in "real world" settings. The Hart Career Center has a centralized internship program to connect students and employers. Over 70 percent of IWU students complete at least one internship during their time at Illinois Wesleyan, and over half of these students complete more than one. Feedback from employers indicates that one internship may not be enough in today's competitive job market.

Graduate School – Every year a percentage of IWU graduates will continue their education. Just as you started your college search prior to completion of high school, you will do the same if you are considering a Master's, JD, PhD or other graduate/professional degree. The Hart Career Center staff can assist you in researching schools/programs, reviewing and critiquing essays, preparing for exams, and completing applications.

Job Search Assistance – Graduate school not in your plans at this time? The majority of our students will seek post-graduate employment. This is where those connections come in and your commitment to ACT plays a key role. By senior year we hope you have developed a network of contacts. The Hart Career Center also provides a number of services/events to connect students and employers. Job Fairs, on-campus recruitment, our Titan CareerLink online system, and LinkedIn.

ACHIEVE

There is no better feeling than receiving notification of admission to the graduate or professional school of your choice or receiving a job offer from an employer for whom you would love to work. For the class of 2014, 96 percent of those responding to our graduate survey indicated either employment or graduate school admission. How did this happen? Because they followed that simple recipe...Explore. Act. Achieve. It's simple in concept but requires that you take action. We look forward to working with you.

Have a fantastic year!

Career Planning

Career planning takes time and yet it is one of the most important activities you will engage in during your college years and throughout your life. You need to build in time beginning your first year as change is a common occurrence for students. Plan to visit the Hart Career Center and let our staff be your partners in the process.

Self-Assessment:

Start assessing your own career direction by doing a bit of self-reflection and taking a simple inventory of your values, skills and interests.

Your Values

- What principles guide your life?
- What do you feel strongly about?
- What do you respect in others?
- What are your most important life goals?

Your Interests

- What excites you? What activities are really enjoyable?
- What do you like to think, read or talk about?
- What topics peak your curiosity or your concern?
- What would you like to know more about?

Your Skills

- What things have you “always” been good at?
- What have you learned to do that has received praise?
- What can you do that is useful in many areas?

FOCUS 2 combines self-assessment, career and major exploration, decision making and action planning in one comprehensive product. Customized with Illinois Wesleyan University’s majors, students’ assessment results are matched to career options and majors/programs offered at IWU. FOCUS 2 guides students through a reliable career and education decision making model to help them select their majors at IWU, make informed career decisions and take action.

Career Guidance

Partner with the Career Center staff on each step of your journey. The most common statement made by students who visit the Hart Career Center is “Thank you! I feel so much better.”

Individual Career Advisement:

Experienced career counselors are available at the Hart Career Center to assist you in answering questions such as:

- ▶ What’s the best major for me?
- ▶ Should I double major? Is a minor helpful?
- ▶ What jobs are available for history, sociology, English, etc. majors?
- ▶ May I talk with or actually see what a forensic psychologist, ophthalmologist or actuary does?
- ▶ Should I consider graduate school?

Call (309) 556-3071 to schedule an appointment.

Career Assessments:

One approach to finding academic majors and possible career fields most compatible with your primary interests and strengths is through vocational and personality inventories. The Hart Career Center uses several assessment tools including the Myers-Briggs Type Indicator and the Strong Interest Inventory. Taking the time to complete and review these assessments may reassure you about your career thoughts or inspire you to look into new possibilities you had not previously considered. The results of the assessments are always reviewed with a counselor who can assist you in understanding how to best use this information.

Find Your Passion

Informational Interviews

Talking to a current professional is a great way to determine if a career field is for you. An informational interview is an information-gathering conversation between you and someone employed in the career field in which you are interested. It allows you to learn about a career field of interest, while also doing a reality check.

- ▶ Talk to professionals recommended by faculty members, Hart Career Center staff, friends from work, family, neighbors, teachers, church friends, etc.
- ▶ Set up the interview by phoning in advance and requesting 30 minutes of the person's time—and then stick to that!
- ▶ If someone has referred you, give the person's name and indicate why you are calling and that you are not asking for a job, but to get information about the type of work they do and how they got into that field.
- ▶ Be on time for the interview, dress professionally and take notes.
- ▶ Send a thank you note after the informational interview and consider enclosing a resume.

Possible questions to consider asking, select 6-8 questions to keep within 30 minutes

1. What interested you most about getting into this type of work?
2. How did you prepare yourself for this career? What classes or activities would you suggest to me?
3. Knowing what you know now, would you go into this career? Why or why not?
4. What do you like most and least about your job? What is most rewarding?
5. What skills or personal qualities are necessary in this career?
6. What do you do in a typical day and what type of people do you encounter?
7. How stressful is your job? What are the frustrations associated with your work?
8. What are the advantages and disadvantages of working in your field?
9. What, in your opinion, is the job outlook in this career area?
10. How much variety is connected with your work?
11. Can you recommend the names of other people or employers I can consult to find out more about your field? May I use your name to introduce myself?

Job Shadowing

During a typical job shadowing visit, you “shadow” an employee at work for a couple of hours, or sometimes several days. The visit provides a close-up look at the workplace and the day-to-day responsibilities of a professional in your field of interest. You have a chance to observe activities, ask questions, and consider the pros and cons of a profession or industry.

- ▶ Prepare for the job shadow visit by researching the employer and/or industry you will be observing.
- ▶ Work with the Hart Career Center, faculty members, your family, neighbors and friends to identify professionals in your field of interest that might be willing to allow a shadow experience.
- ▶ Prepare a number of questions that you would like to have answered during your visit.
- ▶ Contact the professional to arrange an appropriate time to visit; confirm the time/date/location.
- ▶ Dress professionally during the shadow experience and be respectful and confidential.
- ▶ Follow up the visit with a formal thank you note.

Approach Email Example

Dear Ms. Jones,

Greetings from Illinois Wesleyan! I am a junior English major with an interest in learning more about the field of public relations. Warren Kistner at the Hart Career Center gave me your contact information and suggested you might be a good resource for me.

Would it be possible for us to set up a 20 minute meeting to talk about your career path and any advice you might have for someone looking to break into the PR field? I am hoping to look for internships in the coming months and I am certain a conversation with you would be helpful as I begin to look for opportunities.

My contact information is included below. I realize you have a very busy professional life and I greatly appreciate your consideration of my request.

With best regards,
Mary Michaels

Internships: Experience the Possibilities

Internships: Experience the Possibilities

Simply put, an internship is pre-professional work experience in your major field of study or career interest area.

Why intern?

Internships give you the opportunity to:

- ▶ Explore possibilities of future careers
- ▶ Gain valuable skills and career-related experience
- ▶ Apply classroom knowledge to real-world situations
- ▶ Establish professional contacts and begin networking
- ▶ Possibly earn money, academic credit or a future job offer

When should I intern?

Anytime! Students do internships over the summer and also during the academic year. In the fall and spring semester, interns will typically work 12-15 hours a week. Many interns will work full time during May Term and through the summer. Intern when you are ready; anytime from second semester of your first year to the summer after you graduate.

Where can I intern?

Anywhere! Many local organizations offer convenient access to internships in the Bloomington-Normal area. This is a perfect option during the fall and spring semesters. However, during the summers, students can intern in their hometowns, in other states and even abroad. IWU is also affiliated with academic-year internship programs in Chicago, Washington, D.C. and New York City. Visit the Hart Career Center or our website to learn more! To see where IWU students intern, visit <https://php.iwu.edu/internships>

When should I start looking for an internship?

Now! It's never too early to start searching for possibilities! The Hart Career Center receives internship listings continuously and most organizations accept applications on a rolling basis. Begin searching at least a semester before you'd like to intern. National deadlines for summer internships are quite early. Getting a head start will provide you with more options.

Does the Hart Career Center find an internship for me?

No! The Hart Career Center assists you, but students and employers choose each other. No employer is assigned an intern and no student is given an internship. The internship search parallels the job search.

Are interns paid?

Sometimes! Internships can be paid or unpaid; employers determine whether or not the internship is paid. Whether paid or not, the experience you receive is a valuable form of payment.

Can I receive academic credit for my internship?

Perhaps! Academic departments make this determination. It may be possible to receive academic credit for an internship, but many students participate for experience only. Should you desire academic credit toward your degree, you'll need to work with a faculty supervisor to complete an Internship Learning Contract. Pick up this form at the Hart Career Center or download from our website. Once filled out, the form is turned in to the Hart Career Center.

Where do I find out about internships?

All over! A great place to start is at the IWU Hart Career Center. Hundreds of internship opportunities are available to you through the Hart Career Center's Internship Program. Our program is centralized, which means no matter what your area of study, the Hart Career Center can help you to find internship opportunities. We post all of the positions we hear about on our online database, Titan CareerLink.

- ▶ Titan CareerLink — allows you to review internship descriptions, apply electronically and, if an employer is visiting campus, sign up for an interview. You can access Titan CareerLink on campus, at your home or even when you study abroad! To review internship opportunities, access your Titan CareerLink account through the Hart Career Center website www.iwu.edu/cccenter. (See detailed instructions for Titan CareerLink on pages 39-40.)

Are there other places to look for internships?

You bet! Here are a few other search suggestions:

- ▶ www.internships.com and www.looksharp.com — large national internship databases.
- ▶ www.iscpa.org — The ISCPA (Illinois Small College Placement Association) website. ISCPA is a consortium of 20 small colleges in Illinois that work together to share resources.
- ▶ www.indeed.com and www.simplyhired.com — both of these are "spider sites" that pick up internship postings from company websites and other job search sites.
- ▶ www.idealists.org is a similar site for non-profit positions in the U.S. and abroad.
- ▶ Visit company websites if you have ideas for where you'd like to work. Look for their employment or college experience page for internship information.
- ▶ Try a Google search — you'll be amazed at what you'll find.
- ▶ Network — let your family, friends, professors and neighbors know what you're looking for! Personal references are still one of the best ways to land a position.
- ▶ Attend an Internship Fair — The annual IWU Internship Fair is September 28 in the Memorial Center. Additionally, ISU has several fairs in the fall and spring that IWU students may attend. Fairs provide an excellent opportunity for you to find out what types of internships are available and to begin making some professional connections.

Internships: Experience the Possibilities

- Consider one of our affiliated programs — Washington Semester, www.american.edu/washingtonsemester
Semester in Washington, scs.georgetown.edu/departments/19/semester-in-washington, ACM Chicago programs, www.acm.edu (Arts, Entrepreneurship and Urban Studies), New York Media Experience Program, www.marist.edu/nymep
- Drop by the Hart Career Center — our career resource library has extensive directories and internship resources.
- Visit our website — Find more online and career-specific resources at www.iwu.edu/ccenter.

Where have IWU students interned?

MANY places! Last year, over 511 students reported their internships to the Hart Career Center. They have contributed their talents through internships in organizations throughout the United States and abroad and have had some amazing experiences. Just a few of the recent internship sites include:

Advocate BroMenn Medical Center, Normal, IL

How do I prepare to apply?

- 1) Develop a polished and error-free resume. Use this guide for assistance (see pages 12-13). The Hart Career Center staff would be happy to review your resume. Stop by during drop-in hours or schedule an appointment by calling (309) 556-3071.
- 2) Write a Cover Letter if needed. Many positions will ask for a letter of interest to introduce your resume (see page 18).
- 3) Get ready for an interview. If a company likes your resume, they will want to schedule an interview. Plan for success:
 - Research the organization and prepare questions to ask.
 - Practice answering typical interview questions (see page 34). Sign up to participate in the Hart Career Center's Practice Interview Program through Titan CareerLink. (see page 31).
 - Prepare to dress professionally on interview day.
- 4) Follow up...follow up...follow up!
 - If it's been one-two weeks since you applied or since the deadline passed, it's okay to follow up politely with a note or phone call inquiring about the status of your application.
 - Similarly, follow up an interview with a thank you note.
 - Once you receive an offer and decide to accept a position, it's essential to follow up with the organization to let them know your plans. Additionally, you need to contact employers to formally withdraw from any active searches when you have accepted a position (see page 30 for more guidelines).

After I've found an internship, what's next?

- If you're planning to receive academic credit for the internship, you'll need to visit with your faculty internship supervisor, fill out the Internship Learning Contract and turn it in to the Hart Career Center. The Hart Career Center will notify the Registrar to enroll you in the internship course for your department. Paperwork is due before the last day to add a class in a semester.
- If you are doing a non-credit internship, the Hart Career Center would still like to know about your position for our internship records and for employer contacts and evaluations. Turn in a simple Internship Report, which can be downloaded from the Hart Career Center website.
- Clarify expectations with your employer. Confirm start date, hours, job responsibilities, salary, dress, supervisor, etc. It's a great idea to put your agreement in writing.
- Make the most of your internship experience! Take initiative; observe and learn; be professional; find a mentor; communicate respectfully; be a team player; and have fun.

Create A Strong Resume

What is a resume?

A resume is a summary of your personal, educational and employment experiences. A resume should tell: who you are, what you know, what you do well and what you want to do. The purpose of the resume is to obtain an interview, to serve as a reference during the interview and to serve as a reminder after the interview.

Employers spend approximately 30 seconds reviewing each resume.

- ▶ Mistakes, poorly phrased descriptions, redundancy, etc. will be noticed even during a quick glance.
- ▶ Write in a concise, easy-to-read format, thus bullets, phrases and incomplete sentences are acceptable for this reason.
- ▶ Do not use personal pronouns such as “my” or “I.”
- ▶ Start each phrase with an action verb (page 14).

Always consult with a Hart Career Center staff member before distributing copies of your resume.

Starting Your Resume

- ▶ List all of your jobs, internships, volunteer experiences, athletic, and extra-curricular activities.
- ▶ Include any academic awards and leadership positions.
 - First and second-year students may include high school activities/experiences.
 - Juniors and seniors may only include college information.
- ▶ Group your list of experiences by their relevance to the purpose of your resume. Write bullet points describing your responsibilities, skills used and knowledge gained.
- ▶ Use blank Microsoft Word document to start. Avoid using a template. If you need help formatting visit the Career Center.
- ▶ Try to use key words and skills from the position description or your industry to describe your experience.
- ▶ Use action verbs and the appropriate verb tense. Use the present tense for current positions, and past tense for past positions.

Resume Appearance

- ▶ 8 1/2 by 11-inch paper, white or ivory.
- ▶ .7–1 inch margins on all sides, font of at least 11 point.
- ▶ Use resume or professional paper available at office supply or copy shops.

Information to include

Heading

Name, contact information including email, a campus and/or permanent address, and cell phone.

Note: Be sure that your email is professional in nature. Create a professional voice mail, and take off any music, casual or humorous message.

Objective

Include what type of position you seek AND the skills you have to offer. Do not indicate what you hope to gain (i.e. to develop knowledge of the social service industry, improve skills, etc.).

Examples:

- ▶ Interested in joining ____ staff of a (company/agency/ school district) to apply strong analytical skills and detailed organizational abilities.
- ▶ To obtain a staff nurse position on a pediatric unit using clinical training and relationship building skills
- ▶ To secure a challenging opportunity in the area of customer service using solid communication and assertive sales skills
- ▶ To contribute dynamic interpersonal communication skills to a social service agency working with substance abuse prevention and recovery

Profile or Qualifications Summary (An alternative to the Career Objective)

In place of the objective, consider a profile — usually one to three sentences in length, this personal branding statement emphasizes your unique talents and experiences. Think about what sets you apart or what you are passionate about. What have you consistently been praised for? Use qualifications or key words in the position description if possible.

Examples:

- ▶ Bilingual with extensive work experience and dynamic liberal arts education. Seeking full-time position that will utilize strong analytical and critical thinking skills to reach creative business solutions...
- ▶ Expressive communicator and passionate learner with a diverse background in political science, public relations and non-profit work. Commended abilities in writing, research and leadership...
- ▶ Experience with a variety of topics in biology and medicine, coupled with a stable foundation in the liberal arts. Desire opportunity to use strong interpersonal skills in the healthcare field...

Education

Include name of school, location, date of graduation, degree, major, minor and, if applicable, areas of concentration. Include your cumulative GPA, for example: 3.2 (4.0) if competitive. Some students include a major GPA. Also include study abroad experience (program, location, semester). Do not include high school.

Create A Strong Resume

Employment Experience and/or Relevant Experience

- List in reverse chronological order (most recent first).
- Include part-time, summer, volunteer work, internships, student teaching and clinical experience.
- Under each listed experience, identify job title, name of employer, employer's city and state. Include the dates of employment and the responsibilities of each position using action verbs. Be sure to highlight accomplishments as well as responsibilities.
- Bold first item listed (typically job title or employer) in each experience.

Skills (Language, Computer, Laboratory, Clinical, Technical)

Highlight skills that set you apart or are needed for the position. Examples:

- Competent in conversational Spanish, proficient in written Spanish
- Experienced with lab techniques and procedures such as distillation, chromatography, gel electrophoresis and titration.
- Familiar with oscilloscopes, circuits and transducers.
- Programming skills in Visual Basic, C++ and Java. Proficient in Excel database design, MS Access, Web design and HTML.

Academic Projects/Research/Publications

Highlight significant course projects, semesters, publications or academic research. Discuss your role, outcomes, skills utilized or gained.

Activities/Honors/Leadership/Community Service

List academic honors, awards and scholarships received first, followed by involvement in campus or community organizations and leadership roles. May be one category or multiple.

Pat Palmer '87, Partner at VSA Partners, shared a presentation on the value of the Liberal Arts in job searching.

Top Pet Peeves from Employers

Spelling, grammar and punctuation mistakes

- PROOFREAD – use the Career Center, friends, and relatives to review your resume; don't rely on spell check

Sloppy disorganized resume format

- Consistent, easy-to-read format is essential

Variety of font styles and sizes

- Keep it simple with a professional font and bold items you want to pop

Paragraphs instead of bullets

- Bullet points with action verbs help to highlight your skills and experiences

ALL CAPS !!! Or tiny fonts

- Make it easy on the eyes; no smaller than 10 point font (12 or 11 preferred) and limit capitalizations to main headings

Distracting bullet points ❖ ∞ ⇨ * ☐

- A simple, professional bullet point is best; small circle or square

Listing dates first

- List employers or titles first in your experience section; dates should be last

Incorrect contact info

- Be sure your phone number and email are listed, and correct!

Unreturned emails or voicemails

- HUGE! Have space on your voicemail and check your voicemail and email daily when you are actively searching. Always return an employer's message, even if you are no longer interested in the position.

Cover Letters

What is a cover letter?

It is a letter introducing your skills and experiences that accompanies a resume sent to prospective employers.

What is the key point to keep in mind when writing a cover letter?

To tailor each letter to the position to which you are applying. Tie your skills/experiences to the needs of the position and the organization.

What is the most common mistake with your cover letter?

Employers want to know what you can do for them — not what they can do for you! You need to think like the employer.

What does it mean to “think like the employer?”

Think about what information the employer wants to know about you. Imagine that your job is to fill this position. What skills and experiences do you think will be important? An employer will ask him/herself about you...

- 1) What has this person done in the past?

Account Executive Interns, Camden Weber '16 and Emily Diehl '17 spent the summer working at Progressive Impressions International.

- 2) Does this person have the skills to do the job available?
- 3) What has this person accomplished in previous experiences?
- 4) What kind of contributions can I expect in the future from this person?
- 5) Will this person fit in with the team I already have in place?
- 6) Why does this person want to work for our organization?

Being able to address these questions will likely require you to research the organization and be familiar with the position description and qualifications before writing your letter.

Can I use the same cover letter when submitting a resume to different organizations?

No, you should individualize each cover letter to the position and organization. NOTE: Cover letters are not required when you attend job fairs, on-campus interviews and some personal contacts.

When submitting a cover letter via email, attach it as a pdf or Word document; do not include it in the body of your email. Use the email to briefly introduce yourself, express your interest in the position and reference the attached documents (cover letter, resume).

What five tips will benefit a job seeker most when writing a cover letter?

- 1) Your cover letter is a writing sample. Employers look for clear, concise and persuasive writing with perfect grammar, spelling and punctuation.
- 2) Present yourself in the best light, but don't exaggerate or inflate your skills, experiences and activities.
- 3) Proofread, proofread, proofread! Ask someone with proofreading skills you trust to read over your cover letter. Take it to the Writing Center.
- 4) Demonstrate specific knowledge of the organization. Research the employer and reference something unique about the organization in your letter and why you want to work for them.
- 5) Focus on the skills and qualifications you bring to the position. Employers will invest in on-the-job training, if they can see you are able to communicate effectively; show leadership and teamwork skills; have personal traits, such as the ability to adapt to change, be responsible and take initiative. And you can't just state this, you must show you have skills by citing examples.

Cover Letter Preparation and Format

The recommended length of the cover letter is approximately 200 words and three to four paragraphs. Always limit the letter to one page and address your cover letter to a specific person if possible.

Dear Ms. (or Mr.) Representative Name:

- Paragraph 1* —————→ Reveal your purpose for writing, identifying the position for which you are applying, your source of information, and the name of someone familiar to the organization, if you were referred by them. Strong transition sentence to the next paragraph.
- Paragraph 2* —————→ Discuss your knowledge of the organization. Incorporate recent industry information and specific information about the position/organization.
- Paragraph 3* —————→ Focus on what you can do for the company, school or organization. Base this on your skills, education and experience without restating your resume. Feature two or three specifics from your past experience that might positively impress the employer. Write these qualifications in a bulleted section or sentence format.
- Paragraph 4* —————→ Indicate what steps you will take from here, e.g., calling to follow-up on the application process and provide your phone number. Show appreciation to the reader for the time and consideration given to your letter and resume.

Sincerely,

Ms. Alyson Anders, Web Managing Editor
YES! Magazine
Positive Futures Network
284 Madrona Way NE, Ste. 116
Bainbridge Island, WA 98110

Dear Ms. Anders,

It is with great interest that I apply to be your next Online Reporting Intern. At Illinois Wesleyan University, I have spent the last two years working for the school's weekly newspaper, The Argus, and have developed a very strong passion for the world of journalism. Molly Eden, a past Chief Editor of The Argus, suggested that I apply for this position in hopes that I too could take advantage of the amazing opportunity that YES! Magazine has to offer. After researching your magazine, speaking with Molly and reviewing the qualifications of this position, I feel that I would make a great addition to your online staff.

As a sophomore in college, I have taken every writing/communications opportunity that has presented itself and I regularly collaborate with others for the newspaper and for the television station at Illinois Wesleyan. I dedicate many hours every week to researching, interviewing, editing, publishing, and writing, and my jobs at the newspaper and television station always have top priority. While I am a team player, I am also an extremely driven individual who will work tirelessly not only because I understand the importance of my job, but also because it is what I love to do.

YES! Magazine publishes content that is truly about the people. Fracking, solving world hunger, and the history of International Women's Day are topics that are interesting and relevant. I am passionate about finding and researching solutions to today's problems and giving the public information that is exciting and important. I feel that I will fit in well with a staff where having a sense of humor is essential, and I know that I will use all of my knowledge from working for The Argus and Titan TV to become a valued member of YES! Magazine.

Should you require additional information or have any questions, do not hesitate to contact me at (217) 891-6639 or msmith7@iwu.edu. Thank you for your time, and I look forward to speaking with you soon.

Sincerely,

Monique Smith

Deborah Veney
Vice President for Governmental Affairs
The Education Trust
1250 H. Street N.W., Suite 700
Washington, D.C. 20005

Dear Ms. Veney,

Please accept my application for the Legislative Affairs Associate position at The Education Trust that was advertised recently in the Opportunities in Public Affairs newsletter. I am a senior at Illinois Wesleyan University in Bloomington, Illinois, with a major in Political Science and a minor in Educational Studies. My academic experiences combined with my passion for educational advocacy work and internship experience in legislative offices make me a strong match for this position.

In researching the work of The Education Trust, I was excited to learn about your mission to promote academic achievement at all levels and to close the inequality gaps in educational opportunity and achievement that exist in our country. As a current college student, I was especially interested in reading about your work on college affordability and the Access to Success Initiative. This position would be an ideal chance for me to be able to satisfy my interests in both education and government in one position, while contributing to the success of an organization with such an important educational agenda.

Over the last two years, I have had the unique opportunity to work with both U.S. Senator Dick Durbin and Illinois State Representative Dan Brady in legislative internship positions. These opportunities gave me experience researching legislative proposals and issues, drafting correspondence to constituents, and preparing issue summary papers. I worked closely with the Legislative Aides in each office, and assisted with tracking pieces of legislation. During my time with Senator Durbin in Washington D.C., I was able to read and analyze papers and legislation relating to educational policy and learned a great deal about K-12 and higher education legislation and regulation along with gaining valuable exposure to the politics and landscape of Capitol Hill.

I look forward to returning to Washington, D.C. on a full-time basis after graduation in May and am enthusiastic about putting my outgoing, driven personality, strong writing and verbal communication skills and commitment to educational advocacy to use at The Education Trust. Should you require additional information, I can be reached at (309) 542-1111 or via email at kpeterson@iwu.edu. Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,

Kevin Peterson

Additional Job Search Correspondence

Job Search Correspondence

I want to apply for a position that I'm not sure is currently available? What should I do?

A letter of inquiry is sent when you would like to inquire about possible positions with an organization that may not have posted openings. The goal is to get your resume in their hands. Write with a clear focus on what you know about the organization and how your experience and qualifications match the work environment. Include your resume and ask for information about career opportunities and the application process. (See example inquiry letter on page 22.)

I know an alumna that works at the company I'm interested in. How can I connect with her?

You can write a networking letter to make contact with someone. The purpose is to introduce yourself and indicate a desire to arrange a meeting or phone call that would allow you to ask specific questions about the career field. You must not ask for a job in this letter or in the informational interview. Normally, a resume is not enclosed. You will want to make a connection between you and the reader in the first paragraph, e.g., alumnus of Illinois Wesleyan, or mutual acquaintance. Then state your purpose in the second paragraph and ask to meet at a mutually convenient time. In the final paragraph, indicate how you will follow up with them. (For more information, see section on informational interviews on page 8.)

Do I really need to write a thank you letter?

Yes! This is one of the most important tools that can set you apart from other job candidates. Candidates who send such a letter within 24 hours after the interview demonstrate clear interest in the position and professional polish. Do individualize and send one to each person with whom you had contact.

Ask for a business card from them during an interview so that you are sure to spell their name correctly and use the proper title. Thank them for their time and interest in you. Be brief, but reemphasize your strongest qualifications as they relate to some specific component of the job requirements. In the final paragraph, reiterate your interest in the position and restate your appreciation. (See example thank you letter on page 22.)

What is an acceptance letter?

This is written confirmation of the terms of your employment as you understand them (salary, starting date, where and to whom you report, etc.). This letter is brief and to the point. End with a statement of appreciation for the confidence shown in you and your eagerness to join the team. (See example job offer acceptance letter on page 23.)

Do I have to send a letter if I decline a job offer?

Yes, it is important to send written confirmation if you decline an offer. A polite letter will leave a good impression and leave the door open to future employment opportunities with this same organization. Acknowledge the offer in the first paragraph and express appreciation for the time the employer spent with you. In the second paragraph, indicate that you have thoughtfully considered the offer and have decided not to accept it. In the closing paragraph, express appreciation for their consideration and interest. (See example on page 23.)

The Boys and Girls Club appreciated the mentoring talents of interns Bryce Dolan '16 and Will James '16 this summer.

Dean Carlson '17 honed his technical theatre skills behind the scenes as an intern at the Illinois Shakespeare Festival this summer.

Mark Smith, Director
Talent Acquisition
XYZ Investment Bank
27 Main Street
Chicago, IL 60606

Dear Mr. Smith,

I would like to express my interest in an entry-level analyst position with XYZ Investment Bank. Through my job search and recent conversations with investment advisors, I have come to respect the professionalism that characterizes your firm and its employees. I am confident that the values and objectives of the XYZ team would highly complement my own strengths and enthusiasm. Please consider my application for your Investment Banking Analyst Program, or similar positions that require refined analytical and communication skills.

I was impressed to learn of XYZ Investment Bank's recent acquisition of Precision Group, a tactic which I see as an example of XYZ's commitment to achieving growth and success in the future. Innovative and exciting approaches such as this, coupled with a highly regarded Analyst Program, convinced me that XYZ is the ideal environment to begin my business career.

I will be graduating from Illinois Wesleyan University in May with a degree in Economics and Political Science. Evidence of my leadership and critical thinking skills can be seen in my responsibilities as analyst intern at Citibank, and my commitment to my academics. An educational background in government and business, combined with my internship experiences, has been excellent preparation for a career with your company.

Please review the enclosed resume and references and consider my application for your Investment Banking Analyst program. I would appreciate the opportunity to come to New York to meet with you and explore the company environment. I will call your office next week to discuss these possibilities. Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,

Ron Jones

Mr. Jim Johnson
Vice President
ABC Company
1000 7th Street
Chicago, IL 60601

Dear Mr. Johnson:

Thank you for the time you and your staff spent with me yesterday to discuss the Sales Representative position. This is exactly the type of opportunity I am seeking.

I am very impressed with what I learned about the ABC Company's six-month training program, especially the combination of classroom and on-the-job training. It seems more thorough than comparable programs in the consumer goods industry. Since we talked, I read about the success of your company's latest new product introduction. This just confirms what I have learned about ABC Company's reputation for marketing expertise.

As we discussed, I have two summers of sales experience. This has taught me the importance of goal setting, identifying the customer's needs, and organizing my time effectively. I am confident that my background will make me an asset to your company.

Should you have any questions or need additional information, please do not hesitate to contact me at (309) 556-1111 or via email at jjones@iwu.edu. I look forward to hearing from you and hope I will have the opportunity to work for ABC Company.

Dear Ms. Gray:

I am writing to formally accept your job offer and tell you once again how pleased I am to be coming to work at Chicago's Center for Behavioral Health. After learning more about the Center and its progressive services, I am excited about joining the organization and having the opportunity to contribute.

Per our conversation on April 1, 2016, I am accepting the psychology assistant position you have offered me. I understand that my responsibilities will include assisting with comprehensive intake assessments, and supporting individual and group therapy with the interdisciplinary team at an annual salary of $33,000. As agreed, I will begin work on May 25, 2015.

I will be moving to Chicago and will call you with my new contact information. I look forward to receiving the contract and official position description and will sign the contract and return it promptly.

Again, thank you for this opportunity. I am excited about becoming a part of the CCBH team.

Dear Mr. Clark,

I want to express my sincere appreciation to you for including me in the interview process as you select candidates for your firm's Winter Audit Intern position. I have enjoyed meeting with members of your staff and have been impressed by the quality of your team and organization.

However, as I explained in our recent phone conversation, I respectfully withdraw from consideration for this position. I have decided to accept another internship offer that I believe more closely matches my skills and current career goals.

Thank you again for the opportunity to explore career options with Accurate Accounting Firm. I enjoyed meeting you and wish you and your staff well as you close out the recruiting season.

Sincerely,

References

1) Selecting References:

In selecting people to ask to serve as references for you, think about what those individuals know about you:

- Faculty members may know about your academic ability, productivity, and timeliness.
- Past and present employers usually know about such things as your reliability, initiative and your ability to work with others.
- Advisors and coaches may also be aware of information about you which could be relevant to a potential employer such as drive, leadership skills and work ethic.

Avoid selecting references who only know you in a social capacity.

2) Getting Permission:

Never give someone's name as a reference without that person's permission. Keep each of your references informed about your job search — provide them with a current resume and tell them names of persons and organizations to which you've given their names. Whenever possible, give them a copy of the job description for those positions for which you are applying and a copy of your resume.

3) Giving References to Employers:

- Create a separate reference page to list your references. Include full name, title, organization with which the person is affiliated, complete address, phone number and email address (if available). See Example Reference list below.
- Provide reference information when you are asked to provide it. If you reach the interview stage and have not been asked for reference information, you may want to offer it.

4) What Should References Say?

Many references are not sure what they are to say on the candidate's behalf. Encourage them to mention:

- the capacity in which they know/knew you
- the time frame of the relationship, and
- the positive characteristics you demonstrate
- how your skills and abilities match those of the position

Portfolios

A portfolio is a cutting edge career management tool that illustrates your skills through tangible, objective and concrete evidence of your successes, qualifications and co-curricular activities. It can be used as a personal marketing tool that demonstrates your competitiveness as a job seeker and helps set you apart from other candidates. It provides direct documentation (class projects, writing samples, powerpoint programs) and third-party documentation (performance reviews, letters of reference) of your skills. It changes according to your needs and/or your audience.

Reflect on the skills that need to be showcased within your portfolio by reviewing job descriptions and career information. Many of the skills you have developed through classroom work and preparation are skills that employers desire when hiring new employees. These include communication, teamwork, leadership, problem solving, organization and planning, research, analysis, decision making and technical and scientific proficiency in your major.

Use a portfolio to:

- ▶ Apply for full-time positions or internships
- ▶ Apply for graduate programs, scholarships or grants
- ▶ Transition into a new career
- ▶ Seek a promotion or negotiate a pay raise
- ▶ Market your business
- ▶ Document professional development

A portfolio should be:

- ▶ Easy to carry and present
- ▶ Easy to add or modify information (a three-ring binder works well)
- ▶ Professional in appearance (use plastic sleeves to keep pages clean)
- ▶ Self-explanatory and well designed for ease in locating specific information (use tabs and captions)
- ▶ Easily customized to demonstrate requirements for a specific position

Consider an electronic portfolio or a personal website or CD

Students practice valuable networking skills with alumni at the "Career Connections" event co-sponsored by the Hart Career Center and the Council for IWU Women.

Consider including:

- ▶ Your branding/mission statement which sheds light on the guiding principles that drive you and give you purpose, your work ethic, organizational interests, management philosophy, etc. and listing goals can be included (ie: where you see yourself in five-years time)
- ▶ Your skills, qualifications and abilities, including a list of accomplishments highlighting your achievements in your career to date, samples of your work (e.g. Powerpoint presentations, reports, workshops you've developed, reports, publications, brochures, news clippings, etc.)
- ▶ Testimonials, letters of recommendations and thank you notes from clients, colleagues and supervisors are always nice to include; some people even include favorable job reviews/evaluations
- ▶ Photocopies of awards, licenses, certificates, degrees and scholarships
- ▶ Any professional development activities; for example, provide a listing of professional associations and conferences attended and any other professional activities
- ▶ A copy of your current resume plus a scannable/text-based resume in case one is required
- ▶ A reference list should also be included with the names of three to five people (including their full names, titles, addresses and phone/email), who are willing to speak about your strengths, abilities, and experience; at least one reference should be a current or former manager

Besides the traditional portfolio, you should also consider developing an online Web-based portfolio. Make sure your online presence/branding corresponds to your resume and your portfolio. The information should be similar online (ie: LinkedIn and any website you use for a portfolio) and back up what is in your resume.

This year, the Council for IWU Women will hold their annual Summit event February 25-27, 2016.

Writing Examples

Guidelines for Writing Examples

Why would an employer want to see your writing? It gives them another insight into what kind of work you would do for their company or institution. Through a writing sample, an employer can evaluate your writing skills and get an idea of your communication style. Here are some quick tips to follow in composing your writing sample for an employer!

- ▶ Writing samples should be two to five pages in length.

If you want to use a longer paper, cut out non-essential paragraphs, edit it so it still flows and add an explanation paragraph clarifying what the larger paper is about and how your sample fits into that larger scheme.

- ▶ Stick to something that relates to the job for which you are applying, if possible.

Employers want to know how you will write if you are placed in that job; thus, try to stick to that field. For example, for a job in journalism you may want to submit something written for the campus newspaper; for a job in research, an excerpt from a research paper would be more practical. Whatever you submit, try to stay away from “creative” writing samples, even in “creative” fields like television and advertising. Employers want to see a concise, succinct sample.

- ▶ Make it perfect!

Check and double-check for any typographical, spelling or grammar errors. It may help to read the sample out loud or have a friend or counselor look at it to get a different perspective. You should add a cover sheet with your name, address, phone number and the title of the work. Do not submit a sample that has comments from a professor or employer.

- ▶ Do not submit something that has been heavily edited by someone else.

Employers want to see your work, not someone else's! Also, stay away from group project papers, unless you clearly mark which sections you wrote and cross out sections that are not your work.

- ▶ Do not put your sample in a binder.

It just makes it a hassle for the employer to file and photocopy.

- ▶ Only submit a writing sample upon request.

If they don't ask, don't give! Keep one with you during interviews in case the employer does ask for it. If the situation permits, you may ask an employer what type of writing sample they would like to see.

Once you finish, you may want to consider visiting the IWU Writing Center or talking to a Hart Career Center staff member to review questions about your writing sample and to get a second opinion.

Pre-Employment Testing

Prior to employment, some organizations may require pre-employment testing.

This can include drug/alcohol screening, personality or skill inventories, agility/strength or honesty testing. Background screening might also be required which can include a credit check, criminal record screening, fingerprinting, driver's license check, academic credentials verification and reference checks. It might seem a bit overly thorough, but it is legal for employers to seek this information.

Drug Testing in the Employment Selection Process

Drug testing is becoming commonplace in the selection of personnel. While too expensive to be used in the pre-selection of all employees, candidates should expect that they might be asked to take a drug test. The seriousness of a positive test result should not be taken lightly, since having this on your record may be detrimonial to future employment consideration. Policies in companies differ. Retesting for false positive tests may be routine, and retesting 60 days, six months, or one year later may be allowed. Some companies refuse any retest and a rejection is permanent.

What Can You Do?

- ▶ Ask for reasons for rejection.
- ▶ Report any prescription drugs or medication taken before testing.
- ▶ Know the policy on retesting.
- ▶ Find out what type of laboratory testing is done to ensure fair and accurate procedures.
- ▶ Be aware that undue interest or reluctance to test may be interpreted negatively.

Social Media

SOCIAL MEDIA and Your FUTURE

Can what you post online help or hurt your professional future?

Rather than rely solely on resumes, interviews and references, employers, with increasing frequency, are turning to the Internet to gather information about the candidates they are considering.

In a recent study conducted by Jobvite, 94% of recruiters indicated that “they use or plan to use social media in their recruitment efforts” and 86% of these recruiters reported looking at the social profiles of candidates (on sites like LinkedIn, Facebook and Twitter). Many indicated that they were influenced by what they learned, either positively or negatively. Protect yourself and your online image.

Technology has also expanded job searching venues. You can research and apply for internships and jobs all over the country. You have a wealth of employment information at your fingertips from the comfort of your own room. Simultaneously, the Internet has changed how companies and employers gather information about potential candidates.

Protect Yourself

Suggestions:

1. “Google” yourself. Put your name in quotes and see what you find. Search for web content and images.
2. Review any information you have on social networking sites, blogs, online journals, etc. What will reflect positively about you if/when an employer sees your profile, blog, personal website, etc?
3. Be thoughtful and proactive. Do not post information or pictures about yourself online that may suggest illegal actions, inappropriate partying or sexual behavior. Remember that pictures you or anyone else posts about you can be seen by anyone, without too much difficulty and hitting the ‘delete’ button does not ensure that the information is no longer available.
4. Email impeccably. Email is a very important part of your online image. Answer all emails in a timely and professional manner. Use proper grammar, spelling, capitalization and business etiquette at all times.
5. Create a positive Internet presence. Clean up what information currently exists about you, and review links you have on your profile. If you tweet or use an online journal or blog, consider the benefits of password-protecting, or limiting to a small circle rather than being completely open with it.
6. Ask for help. Feel free to consult with any of the staff at the Hart Career Center about your Internet presence!
7. Join LinkedIn. LinkedIn is a professional social media site that will allow you to create a positive, professional presence on the Internet.

Ethical and Professional Guidelines

Hart Career Center Guidelines for Internship and Job Searching

The Hart Career Center at Illinois Wesleyan University provides information, resources, and support as you explore and apply for internships and jobs. It is important that you conduct yourself in a professional, ethical, and socially responsible manner. The following guidelines are to inform and assist you in this process.

Honesty and Integrity

As a candidate, you must provide accurate information about yourself, skills and experiences as you pursue internships and jobs. You may not inflate or exaggerate your abilities.

Professional Conduct

As a candidate, you need to communicate in a professional manner, and to be courteous and respectful in your interactions with others, in writing, in person, via phone or email.

To that end, you need to:

- ▶ Respond to all calls and emails from employers in a timely manner, even if you have already accepted a position with another organization.
- ▶ Attend all interviews, practice or otherwise, that you have scheduled. If you cancel an interview less than two business days prior to the interview, understand that you will lose Titan CareerLink privileges.
- ▶ Be punctual, come prepared and dress appropriately for all career-related events.
- ▶ When you accept an offer, make a phone call to do so and follow up with an acceptance letter. (See sample on page 23.)
- ▶ Withdraw from all internship/job search activities once you have accepted an internship or job offer. You need to contact all organizations to inform them of your status. It is unacceptable to renege on an offer that you have verbally accepted.
- ▶ To decline an offer and to cancel active applications, contact the employer by phone and write a follow up letter that can be sent via mail or email. (See sample on page 23.)
- ▶ Monitor online social networking sites, online pictures and blogs to ensure that information that is publicly available does not contain inappropriate or unprofessional information about you or your activities.

Consequences of Improper Behavior

Failure to adhere to these guidelines may result in:

- Removal from Titan CareerLink
- Suspension of all Hart Career Center services

C. How do I prepare for the practice interview?

Be familiar with your resume, and review interview questions located in this career guide.

D. How is the practice interview conducted?

The interviewer will spend approximately forty minutes with each student. The first thirty minutes will be the actual interview while the last ten minutes will be reserved for feedback from the interviewer. All practice interviews are held at the Hart Career Center.

E. How will I be evaluated?

Each student will be evaluated on a variety of factors including personal appearance, self-confidence, enthusiasm and ability to articulate their experiences. This interview may be videotaped so that you can review the interview yourself. The interviewer will give you feedback in the interview and complete an evaluation form that can be picked up the following day.

► *If you need to cancel your mock interview, you must do so by 4:00 p.m. two business days prior to the interview date. Otherwise you will not be allowed to participate in subsequent interviews. Students who wish to have their revoked privileges reinstated must schedule an appointment with the director of the Hart Career Center.

Interviewing Success Stand above other applicants — Be prepared!

Step 1: Research the Company

Know the company or organization well! Use online resources on the Hart Career Center website, vault.com, glassdoor.com, jobhuntersbible.com/research, LinkedIn and Google news. If you can, talk with current employees. Find out:

- What are the organization's major products and services? Any new products or services?
- Who are the organization's clients or target market(s)?
- Who are the organization's competitors?
- What is the organization's relative position in the marketplace? (e.g. leader, #2, #5, etc.)
- What problems or issues is the organization facing?
- What are some of the organization's recent projects, successes, new accounts, etc.
- What is the company culture?
- What size is the organization? Annual sales? Areas of growth or decline?
- Is the company privately or publicly owned? Is it an independent organization or part of a larger conglomerate?
- It is also important to have an understanding of the industry, not just the company.

Step 2: Know Yourself

What skills and qualifications do you possess that the employer needs? What personal qualities and skills make you a strong candidate? Create an inventory of your skills and goals.

Major Skills:

- | | | |
|--------------------|-------------------|-------------|
| •Technology | •Communication | •Accounting |
| •Analytical/Skills | •Organization | •Management |
| •Marketing | •Finance | •Leadership |
| •Administration | •Sales | •Teaching |
| •Creativity | •Customer Service | •Helping |

Interview Preparation

Step 3: Dress to Impress

First impressions matter! You want to be sure the image you are projecting with your attire and presentation allows an employer to see you in the professional role you are seeking.

Proper Interview Attire: Business Professional

Women

- Business suit with knee-length skirt or pants in dark color
- Conservative blouse or knit shirt – avoid low necklines or excessive frills
- Minimal, simple accessories
- Closed-toe shoes with low-medium heels and flesh-colored pantyhose

Men

- Matching suit in navy, black or grey solid or muted pinstripe
- Long-sleeve dress shirt in subtle color (ironed)
- Conservative tie that coordinates with jacket and shirt
- Polished dress shoes with socks that match your pant color

Checklist for All:

- ✓ Neatly trimmed, clean hair; Simple, classic styles are best
- ✓ Good fit is important – not too tight, or too short
- ✓ Remove extra earrings; keep other jewelry simple
- ✓ No gum, strong perfumes or aftershaves
- ✓ Always err on the conservative side
- ✓ Clean hands and nails; simple manicure if polished
- ✓ Cover tattoos & piercings if possible
- ✓ Carry a portfolio or leather bag/briefcase (avoid backpacks or purses)
- ✓ Turn phone off – or better, leave in car

Business Casual — Don't let the name fool you, while less casual than interview attire, business casual expectations are still for professional dress. Pants should be non-denim (khaki's or dress pants). Tops can be sweaters, button-down shirts or blouses, polos or knit tops. Blazers or sport coats are also an appropriate addition.

Step 4: After the Interview—Professional Follow-Up

Send each person with whom you interviewed a formal thank you letter within 24 hours (see example on page 22). Individualize each letter to the person. Include:

- ▶ why you are excited about working for this organization
- ▶ why you are a good candidate for this position
- ▶ additional information that wasn't covered in the interview that is relevant to the position
- ▶ thank them for the interview and for considering you

If you accept a position, it is a good idea to confirm you're acceptance in writing (see example on page 23).

Additionally, accepting a job offer ethically obligates you to cease job search efforts and to withdraw your candidacy at other organizations. A courteous phone call followed by a professional letter is most appropriate (see example on page 23).

Types of Interviews

Campus Recruiting Interviews

These job or internship interviews occur at the Hart Career Center and are offered by companies interested in recruiting IWU students. You may only have 30 minutes, so focus on problems that you solved or challenges you overcame during a past work experience or an internship. If the organization offers an information session the day prior to the interviews, attend it and dress business casual.

Be sure to adhere to your interview schedule. Arrive at the Hart Career Center approximately 10-15 minutes early to check-in for your appointment and to receive any additional instructions. If you must cancel an on-campus interview appointment, you must do so at least two business days prior to the scheduled visit using the Titan CareerLink system. Failure to show up for a scheduled interview will result in your losing any further on-campus interviewing privileges.

Second Interviews/Office Visits

The purpose of an office visit is to allow you to get a more detailed assessment of the employment opportunity, and for the employer to make a more in-depth evaluation of your personal qualities.

The second interview visit may include any of the following:

- ▶ You may be greeted by a company representative who will act as your host for the visit. This person may be an IWU graduate or someone working in the area.
- ▶ You will most likely meet with several key managers, including those responsible for making hiring decisions. Interviews may be one-on-one or panel/group interviews.
- ▶ An interview luncheon or dinner may be arranged. This is considered a prime opportunity for you and the employer to get to know more about each other outside the formal interview process. Though less formal, this is still part of the interview process. Regardless of the attitude of the participants, you are still under scrutiny. Avoid politics and other controversial issues. Be professional. Do not order alcohol, even if the interviewer does.

Telephone Interviews

This is typically a screening interview, though may replace a face-to-face interview if distance is an issue. Without having visual cues from the interviewer, it is hard to assess how your answers are being received. Listen for changes in tone and inflection. Smile as you speak so that your voice projects enthusiasm and interest. Your goal during the interview is to convince the interviewer that you're worth bringing into the office for an interview.

- Pick a quiet location where you can speak openly and without interruption. If you have call waiting, ignore it. If using a cell phone, be sure your battery is charged and reception is strong.
- Keep your resume, cover letter and the job description nearby for reference.

Interview Preparation

On-Campus Recruitment Interviews

The Hart Career Center aims to make recruiting easy for both employers and students through the on-campus recruitment program. Titan CareerLink is used to manage the program. To participate, students need to:

1. Register with Titan CareerLink. (See pages 38-39). Complete a profile and upload requested documents (e.g. resume, cover letter).
2. Ask the Registrar's Office to send an unofficial copy of your academic transcript to the Hart Career Center. A request card is available at both the Hart Career Center and Registrar's Office. Your transcript will be kept on file for the current semester and will be shared with employers that request it.
3. Review the calendar in Titan CareerLink to remain current on upcoming interviews and deadlines.
4. Follow the instructions for applying for jobs and selecting interview time slots as outlined in the Titan CareerLink section. Interview sign-ups may be on an open schedule (first come, first registered basis) or a closed, pre-selected schedule (by employer's invitation only). Check the system daily after the deadline for closed positions to see if you have been selected to interview.

Case Interviews

Companies that value analytical thinking and problem-solving skills may utilize case interviews as a way to evaluate a candidate's critical thought processes and poise under pressure. Management consulting and investment banking firms commonly use case interviews.

In a case interview, expect to be given a business situation, problem or challenge and asked for a resolution. You will be expected to ask a logical progression of questions to probe deeper and gain a better understanding of the question in order to gather information to arrive at a solution. The purpose of the interview is not necessarily to arrive at a single right answer, but instead for an employer to gain an understanding of how an applicant thinks and approaches problems. Interviewers will be looking at a candidate's numerical and reasoning skills; business and leadership development skills; and communication and presentation skills.

Before heading to a case interview, it is important to PRACTICE and research sample case interview questions. Log on to Vault.com through the Hart Career Center website to utilize their Case Interview guide with practice brainteasers and questions. Marc Cosentino's website, casequestions.com also has strong preparation information. His book, Case in Point, along with other books on case interviews, is available in the Hart Career Center resource library. Additionally, many companies have tips and examples on their websites (Bain & Co., Deloitte, McKinsey & Co.).

Behavior-Based Interviews

Many employers use a behavior-based interview approach based on the premise that past behavior (performance) predicts future behavior (performance). Clear and concise responses to behavioral questions that highlight your background and your strengths will set you apart.

The STAR method provides a logical approach to answering interview questions by using one of your past successes in responding to the question.

The four steps to the STAR method are:

1. S Situation Describe the situation you were in: general or specific
2. T Task What goal were you working toward?
3. A Action What action did YOU take? (focus on YOU, use I not WE)
4. R Result What was the result or outcome of your action?

To demonstrate that you possess a particular skill give the interviewer specific examples of when, how and where you used that ability, AND, what was the positive result of what you did? Did you help save money, increase efficiency, save time, increase sales, improve client relations or increase profits?

The following steps outline an effective way to prepare for behavior-based interviews...

- ▶ Analyze the type of positions for which you are applying and identify what skills are required.
- ▶ Analyze your own background. What skills do you have that relate to the job objective?
- ▶ Identify examples from your past experience that demonstrate these skills.
- ▶ Whenever possible, quantify your results. Numbers or specifics help to make your case.
- ▶ Be prepared to provide examples of when results did not turn out as you planned. What did you do then? What did you learn? How would you do things differently today?

Amy DeBoer '15 participates in a practice interview with Jeff Lockenvitz '84, principal of Washington Elementary School.

Sample Interview Questions

Behavioral Interview Questions

- ▶ How do you define leadership? Describe the most recent time when you demonstrated your leadership skills.
- ▶ Listening is a valuable tool. Describe a time when good listening skills helped you overcome a communication problem.
- ▶ Describe a situation in which you identified a problem and explain how you resolved it (root cause investigation, recommending a countermeasure, follow-up, etc.)
- ▶ Describe a time when you made a decision that was unpopular with the other members of your group. What was the end result?
- ▶ Give me an example of a complex process/situation you had to describe to someone. What specifically did you do to make sure the information was clear?
- ▶ What has been the most challenging written assignment you have had? What made it challenging?
- ▶ How do you determine if the work you do is a quality job? What are some ways that you have improved the quality of your own work?
- ▶ Give an example of a team decision in which you were involved in recently. What did you do to help the team reach the decision?
- ▶ Have you ever been in a group situation in which one of the members was unproductive or uncooperative? How did you handle it?
- ▶ Give an example of a time when you did more than what was required in your job.
- ▶ We all know that some problems just don't have solutions. Tell me about a problem you tried to solve but couldn't.
- ▶ Describe a situation that required you to handle multiple tasks at one time. What did you do?
- ▶ What is your procedure for keeping track of items that require your attention?
- ▶ We have all had times when we just couldn't complete everything on time. Describe when this has happened to you. What did you do?
- ▶ What has been one of the most difficult decisions you have had to make on the job? What facts did you consider? How long did it take you to decide?
- ▶ When (if ever) have you delayed making a decision to give more thought to the situation?

Additional Interview Questions

1. Spend five minutes telling me about yourself.
2. What are your strengths?
3. What are your weaknesses, and how are you handling them?
4. What are you looking for in a job?
5. How did you choose your academic major and why?
6. Do you plan to continue your education?

7. What benefits did you get out of your extracurricular activities?
8. How did your college career prepare you for this type of work?
9. Have you had previous employment in this field?
10. Do you prefer to work by yourself or with others?
11. What are your long-term goals?
12. What makes you the best candidate for this position?
13. What do you expect to be doing five years from now?
14. What is your greatest accomplishment?
15. Would you describe yourself as creative? Why?
16. What is your leadership style?
17. What is the most difficult decision you've ever made? How did you make it?
18. How do you think a friend (professor) would describe you?
19. How do you feel about relocation?
20. Why do you want to work for our company?
21. How do you work under pressure?
22. In what ways can you make a contribution to our company?
23. How do you feel about job-related travel?
24. What do you do with your leisure time?
25. What was the last book you read?
26. How did your internship help to prepare you for a career opportunity in this field?
27. Why should we hire you?

Questions to Ask the Interviewer

Yes, you need to ask questions to convey your interest!

1. What are the three top goals you've set for this position for the coming year?
2. What are the biggest challenges I'll face in this position?
3. To whom will I be reporting?
4. Can you describe the training program in greater detail?
5. How does this position fit in with the company's long-term plans?
6. What is the typical career path for someone in this job?
7. How will the success of the person in the position be measured?
8. What is your management philosophy?
9. What particular projects/initiatives is your department focusing on this year?
10. How would you describe your ideal employees?
11. How would you describe the culture here?
12. Are there reservations you have about my fit for this position? (This allows you the chance to address any doubts they may have.)
13. When do you anticipate making a hiring decision?

noun

1: the exchange of information or services among individuals, groups, or institutions; specifically: the cultivation of productive relationships for employment or business

Job search facts you need to know:

70-80% of all jobs are never advertised.

It's easier and less risky for an employer to hire a referral — a friend, relative or friend of a friend — than it is to hire blindly from a stack of applications.

Who you know can be just as important, or more important, than what you know.

Over half of all job seekers find jobs with the help of leads from their acquaintances.

Networking is essential.

Utilizing your network and taking advantage of every opportunity to meet alumni and potential employers at campus and community events are crucial to job search success.

IWU Freeman Asia Internship Program

2015 was the first year of a new IWU internship program in Asia. Thanks to the generosity of the Freeman Foundation, 17 students were able to participate in internships in Asia over the summer and fall semester.

Internships took place in the Philippines, Hong Kong and Japan. Students were involved in rice research projects, youth development programs, community gardens, English language classes, and more! Watch for information this fall on our 2016 program.

Conducting An Effective Job Search

Steps To Success

A successful job search takes time. It is really a marketing campaign with you as the “product.” Only you can come up with an action plan that works in your situation, but here are some areas to think about.

1. Preparation

- ▶ Decide if geography, position or both will be the focus of your job search.

- ▶ Get your “tools” ready to go:

Resume — Focused on the position(s) for which you are applying.

Cover Letter — Personalize this letter and focus on what you can do for the organization. Have a draft ready that you can modify when applying for positions.

Work Samples — Depending on your field, you may need to prepare a portfolio with samples of your work.

Interview Skills — Polish your skills through the Hart Career Center’s Practice Interview Program and attendance at interviewing seminars.

Attire — Do you have your “interview suit?” If not, it’s time for a shopping trip!

2. Research

- ▶ Research employers of interest to you. The Hart Career Center library houses a wide variety of employer directories, company literature, and much more. You will also find computer workstations in which to take your job search online. Be sure to check vault.com, a comprehensive database to learn more about organizations in your field. Access this from the Hart Career Center website.
- ▶ If possible, talk with employers in your fields of interest. The Hart Career Center and LinkedIn can assist you in locating professionals in your field.
- ▶ Talk with current employees of organizations you are considering. These may be recent IWU alums.

3. Take Advantage of Hart Career Center Resources

- ▶ There are many sources available to assist you with your job search. A partial list includes...

Vacancy Bulletins — The Hart Career Center subscribes to a variety of online vacancy publications listing currently available positions in a wide range of career fields.

On-Campus Recruitment Program — Recruiters from local, regional and national organizations conduct individual job interviews during the fall and spring semesters.

Internet Job Sites — There are many. Be sure to check out a comprehensive list of links from the Hart Career Center website.

Job Fairs — Throughout the year, job fairs provide students with the opportunity to meet with a variety of employers. See a list of events on page 38.

ISCPA Services — Illinois Wesleyan University is a member of the Illinois Small College Placement Association. Our membership in this consortium of 20 private colleges and universities throughout the state provides students with a variety of services.

Job and Internship Postings on www.iscpa.org.

ISCPA Fall Interview Day, Oct. 14, 2015 in Willowbrook, Ill. Interviews for students pre-selected by employers.

4. Be Proactive! Conduct a Targeted Job Search Campaign

In addition to the services provided by the Hart Career Center and the ISCPA, you will want to mail or email your cover letter and resume to employers that you identify as prospects. It is important to maintain accurate records and follow up accordingly.

5. Follow-up

- ▶ Immediately following an interview, preferably within 24 hours, send a thank you letter to the interviewer(s). In addition to thanking the employer, re-emphasize your interest in the position.
- ▶ Within two weeks of your initial correspondence, consider writing or calling to check on the status of your application.
- ▶ After accepting a position, notify other employers as a professional courtesy. This allows them to offer a position to another candidate.
- ▶ Notify the Hart Career Center when you have accepted employment. Seniors should complete a graduate survey.

Career Center student staff members, Karen Thul '15, Courtney Baird '15 and Emily Potosky '15 promoted Career Center services at the Dug Out.

Employment Fairs

Employment fairs provide a forum for employers to interact with students. You should attend fairs to learn more about career opportunities and employers, to make connections and practice your professional networking skills — oh, and maybe to get a lead on a potential job!

On the IWU campus, Illinois Wesleyan will host the following employment fairs:

- ▶ September 28 — IWU Internship Fair
4:00–6:00 p.m. at IWU Memorial Center
- ▶ November 11 — IWU Nursing Career Fair
10:00 a.m.–1:00 p.m. at
IWU Memorial Center

IWU/ISU Employment Fairs

Once again this year, IWU and ISU will be collaborating on the following Internship and Employment Fairs.

- ▶ September 11 — ISU Accounting Career Fair
10:00 a.m.–1:00 p.m. at Bone Student Center
- ▶ September 16 — ISU Internship Fair
4:00–7:00 p.m. at ISU Bone Student Center
- ▶ October 18 — IWU/ISU Fall Career Fair
4:00–7:00 p.m. at ISU Bone Student Center
- ▶ January 29 — ISCPA CareerFest
times tba at North Central College, Naperville
- ▶ February 16 — ISU Internship Fair
4:00–7:00 p.m. at ISU Bone Student Center
- ▶ February 26 — ISU Education Career Fair
times tba at ISU Bone Student Center
- ▶ March 15 — IWU/ISU Spring Career Fair
4:00–7:00 p.m. at ISU Bone Student Center

Additional job fairs are held throughout the year in various locations. Visit the Hart Career Center website for details and to view an online workshop on Tips for Job & Internship Fair Success.

What to Wear?

Dress professionally. First impressions are important, so conservative attire is recommended. A leather portfolio or briefcase in which to carry copies of your resume is also recommended. Leave your backpack (and your cell phone) at home!

How to Prepare?

Review in advance the list of recruiters planning to attend (see links on the Career Center website). Plan your strategy for which recruiters you would like to visit. If possible, research the employers you plan to visit and prepare several questions to ask each recruiter.

Be prepared to sell yourself in a short period of time. You only have a few minutes to introduce yourself, demonstrate your knowledge of the employer, and spark the recruiter's interest in you. You might include major, graduation date, academic accomplishments, internship or other related experiences, special skills, leadership roles, and other relevant information. Be prepared to answer questions that recruiters may have for you.

Plan to arrive early and allow enough time to make valuable contacts. Talk to as many recruiters as possible, not just those listing positions in your field. As you meet recruiters, secure as much information as possible about the organization, and make sure to get the business cards or correct name and spelling for those individuals with whom you speak. Discuss how and when you should follow up with the organization.

Additional tips for success:

- ▶ Demonstrate confidence, interest and enthusiasm.
- ▶ Make eye contact and have a confident, firm handshake.
- ▶ Answer questions clearly and concisely.
- ▶ Ask questions that demonstrate knowledge of the organization.
- ▶ Dress and act professionally. Be polite at all times. The person you meet in the parking lot, hallway or restroom may be a recruiter you will see later that day.
- ▶ Be patient and respect other candidates' privacy when approaching the recruiter's table.
- ▶ Get the recruiter's business card, and discuss how and when you should follow up with the recruiter.

Follow up after the fair with thank you notes. These letters should thank the employer for the information received at the job fair, review your qualifications, and indicate your interest in an interview.

Online Job Applications

Today's job seekers will need to use the Internet in their job search. There are thousands of websites that allow you to search for opportunities, post resumes and apply for jobs. Applicants can use these online job boards, or apply directly online at the company's website.

In some cases, applicants will need to build an employment profile on the site and many sites allow you to set up search agents to email you when new jobs are added to the system.

Tips for Online Application Success:

- ▶ Before applying through an online system, be sure to gather all the data you will need to have on-hand to complete the process (resume, cover letter, employment history details including dates, salaries and supervisors).
- ▶ Always verify the legitimacy of a company or recruiter before completing an online application.
- ▶ Save your resume as YourNameResume.doc or .pdf. Systems may allow you to upload your prepared resume or you might need to utilize an employer's resume builder.

- ▶ Attach a personalized cover letter if allowed.
- ▶ May need to enter reference information and/or take online employment tests.
- ▶ If asked for salary expectations, try "open" or "negotiable." If not possible use a range.
- ▶ Follow instructions. Reread and proofread carefully before hitting send. Typos are no more acceptable online than they are on paper.
- ▶ Prepare for technical glitches. Copy and save online application files or print before sending in case you need to re-enter information.
- ▶ Understand the risks of posting your resume in databases. If you post a resume on a search site, keep records of where it is posted and be sure to remove when search is completed.
- ▶ Follow up if possible with a contact at the organization; this is more difficult with online applications.
- ▶ Keep detailed records of when and where you apply. Save a copy of job descriptions or other company information.

Titan CareerLink

Titan CareerLink is a database of job and internship opportunities for Illinois Wesleyan University students and alumni. Access Titan CareerLink from the Hart Career Center Website or directly at <https://www.myinterfase.com/iwu/student>.

Register: click on Click here to Register! and follow the directions. Your Username is your IWU email and your Password is your IWU Student ID number.

- Complete all sections and click on the Register button. Required (*) fields are marked with an asterisk.
- Click on the Submit Profile button. Submit Profile

Update Your Profile

- Put your cursor over My Account and select My Profile.
- You will see sections containing Personal Information, Demographic Information, Skills, and Additional Information.
- Each section will have an [Edit] link. Click on this link or on the tab at the top of your profile to edit fields within the section.
- Carefully go through each section and complete all of the fields making sure to click on the Save button. Required fields are marked with an asterisk (*).

NOTE: The more detailed you fill out your profile, the better we will be able to assist you. Employers will be able to view your profile. Some information is not viewable, such as your street address.

Upload Your Documents

Evaluating Job Offers

The process of choosing a job begins long before you receive a job offer. The key to choosing the right job is knowing what's most important to you and determining which organization offers the most of what you're looking for in an employer. When deciding on an offer, you'll want to consider many factors beyond the job and the salary. For example: Will you be comfortable in the work environment? Are the organization's values consistent with yours? Will this job meet both your immediate and long-term goals? Use this questionnaire as a guide as you gather information from potential employers:

Issues to Consider	It's Important to Understand	Ask Yourself
Organization Performance	The level of employment stability you can reasonably expect given the organization's market strength and the values of its management.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> How does this organization compare to others in the industry? What is the future outlook for the industry? What are the organization's greatest challenges? Has the organization gone through recent changes, or is a future change likely?
Organization Values	The values that are important to the organization and how it conducts its business affairs.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> How committed is the organization to workforce diversity? How prominent is the organization's commitment to its values and code of professional conduct? How does the organization contribute to the community? Is the organization known for promoting from within?
Nature of the Work	The substance and purpose of the job in the organization - this includes the value of your contribution, the level of personal accountability, assignment variability and challenge.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> What will be the primary responsibilities of the job? How well does this position fit your career interests? How well will this job meet your need to be challenged? How much variety will the job involve?
Work Environment	The atmosphere of the work environment, the quality of the facility and surrounding area.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> How comfortable will you be working in this organization? What is the dress code?
Professional Development Opportunities	The resources available to broaden your knowledge and prepare you for more variable assignments. These may include in-house and external training, on-the-job coaching, tuition reimbursement, professional certification programs and job rotation for future opportunities.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> What types of formal and on-the-job training will you receive? How much coaching and mentoring can you expect? What career growth opportunities are available? What level of tuition reimbursement is provided? How well are career paths documented? How effective is the performance management program?
Work-Life Balance	The degree to which the organization's values, programs and practices accommodate your personal needs; these may include flexible work scheduling, work-at-home arrangements and child care assistance.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> How many hours do people typically work? How much travel does the job require? How convenient is the location? How much flexibility will you have in your work schedule? How committed is the organization to providing technology support for employees who work at home or travel?
Base Pay	The regular stream of income you will receive, consistent with the value of the job in the marketplace and responsibilities on the job.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> What is the near-term pay potential beyond the starting salary? How often will pay be reviewed? How much will individual development and performance influence your salary growth?
Variable Pay	The additional cash compensation you may receive for your individual contributions (bonuses, sales commissions, profit sharing and stock options).	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> What types of variable pay programs does the organization offer? What is the variable pay expectation for this job?
Benefits	The level of protection against loss of income due to illness, death or your need for time off.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> How soon does coverage begin? How much will you pay for benefits? How much time off will you have? What types of retirement plans does the organization offer? How does the organization support employee wellness? What are the opportunities for stock options and other ownership?

Graduate School

Is Graduate School in Your Plans?

The decision to attend Graduate School is a difficult one!

IF:

- ▶ you have consulted with your faculty and/or the Hart Career Center staff,
- ▶ you have a specific area of study to pursue,
- ▶ it makes better professional sense to pursue an advanced degree right away, rather than work awhile first, AND
- ▶ you are a competitive graduate school candidate, and are ready for more school,

THEN:

- ▶ the following information can assist you in this process!

Book and Online Resources

The Hart Career Center has numerous books and online resources to assist you in your research for graduate programs, the application process, writing a personal statement/graduate essay and more. Some resources are for specific programs such as medical school, master's in business administration, law school, museum studies, psychology and many are more general resources with helpful information applicable to all applicants.

Graduate School Timeline and Exams

Application deadlines may range from August (before your senior year) for early decision programs of medical schools to late spring or summer (after your senior year) for a few programs with rolling admissions. The majority of deadlines for the fall's entering class are between December and March.

The following is a timeline designed to provide some guidance as you navigate through this process. All the times indicated below are approximations. You should study deadlines for specific programs carefully since they may vary significantly depending on the institution to which you apply.

Junior Year — Fall and Spring

- Research areas of interest, institutions, and programs
- Talk to advisors and Hart Career Center staff about application requirements
- Register and prepare for appropriate graduate/professional school admission tests
- Investigate national scholarships
- If appropriate, obtain letters of recommendation

Junior Year — Summer

- Take required admission tests
- Review application materials
- Visit institutions of interest, if possible
- Write draft of your personal statement
- Check on application deadlines and rolling admissions policies
- For medical, dental, law school and some other programs, register for the national application or data assembly service most programs use

Senior Year — Fall

- Obtain letters of recommendation
- Take graduate/professional school admissions tests if needed
- If you are applying for financial aid, complete standardized forms. Financial aid deadlines often precede application deadlines.
- Meet with faculty members or Hart Career Center staff to review your application essay
- Send in completed applications

Senior Year — Spring

- Check with all institutions before the deadline to make sure your file is complete
- Visit institutions that accept you
- After making a decision, notify other schools that accepted you so that they may admit students on their waiting list
- Send thank-you notes to people who wrote your recommendation letters, informing them of your success
