Illinois Wesleyan UNIVERSITY

HONORS DAY
CONVOCATION

April 14, 2004

Westbrook Auditorium–Presser Hall
11:00 a.m.

James Plath
Professor of English

Recipient of The Pantagraph Award for Teaching Excellence – 2004

The opening page to Jim Plath's personal Web site offers the following warning: "You've reached Plath Country — where there are always mountains to climb and things to see and the water is always too cold, or too deep. But come in anyway!"

Those who do enter will be struck by the range of interests on display in Plath Country where Plath's own writings on Ernest Hemingway and Chicago blues musicians blend with links to The Argus, which he advises, and the Illinois College Press Association of which he is past president.

Dig deeper into Plath Country and you will come across his published movie reviews, his interviews with established writers in the journal he edited, Clockwatch Review, and his lengthy collection of quotations which run the gamut from Mark Twain to Hunter S. Thompson.

Plath's pursuits are remarkably diverse. For example, he was a finalist in the 1999 PEN Center USA West and Harry's Bar & American Grill Imitation Hemingway Contest in which his entry begins: "Inside Harry's Bar & American Grill I shook the rain off the way a dog would shake the rain off if dogs were allowed inside Harry's Bar & American Grill, or if I allowed myself the use of metaphor. But they do not, and I do not, and this one must have been a stray."

His eclectic work comprises poetry, short stories, interviews, reviews, encyclopedia entries, essays, criticism, and articles. He was co-author with Frank Simons of Remembering Ernest Hemingway, published in 1999 as a centennial tribute. He edited the 1994 volume, Conversations with John Updike, and a chapbook of his poems, Courbet, on the Rocks, was published in 1994.

Plath joined the Illinois Wesleyan faculty in 1988. He received the bachelor's degree in English from California State University at Chico in 1980 before earning both the master's and Ph.D. from the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee.

From 1983 to 1999, he was editor and publisher of Clockwatch Review, which the Council of Literary Magazines and Press honored as one of the top five literary magazines in the country in 1990.

In 1995, Plath was a Fulbright Scholar, lecturing at the University of the West Indies in Barbados.

In addition to teaching courses in creative writing and American literature, Plath has taught the journalism sequence at Illinois Wesleyan since his arrival and has served as advisor to The Argus throughout his 16 years at the University. He won the Illinois College Press Association's Meritorious Service Award in 1999.

Plath's teaching philosophy, spelled out plainly in his Plath Country Web site, places the responsibility for their education squarely on the students themselves: "I give students plenty of rope to either dazzle me with their lariat tricks or hang themselves, before we get into full explanations of logic, critical theories, or proven strategies. It drives them crazy sometimes, but it also affords students more opportunities for creativity and individualized responses."

For his dedication to the ideals and philosophy of higher education and the liberal arts, Professor James Plath is recognized with the university's highest teaching honor.

This program is dedicated to the Class of 2004
and to students who have earned scholastic and activity honors.
