Table of Contents

Note to the Reader ................................................. 4

Fabricating a Fabliau: Façade and Finance in the Shipman’s Tale
Rebecca Welzenbach ........................................... 5

A Feminist Discourse on Carole Maso’s A/V/A
Courtney Holden .................................................. 17

From Midrashim to Merlin: the “Translation” of Jewish Commentaries in Heldris de Cornuille’s Le Roman de Silence
Renee Scherer .................................................... 27

Self Construction and Self Destruction: The Creative Gesture in Malone Dies
Valerie Higgins ................................................... 38

An Exploding Bomb: Self-Definition and the Housewife’s Disease in Lessing’s The Golden Notebook
Anne Wilkinson .................................................. 48

Take His Word For It: Andrew Marvell’s “To His Coy Mistress”
L. Alene Theisen ................................................ 72

The Fight to Stay Alive: A/V/A and the Creative Process
Amanda ReCupido ................................................ 78

Twisting Texts and Tales: The Wyf of Bath’s Proto-Feminist Beliefs Shown through Her Prologue and Tale
Megan Ames ...................................................... 87

Resolution, or Lack Thereof in Twelfth Night
Rachel Shulman .................................................. 98

Published by Digital Commons @ IWU, 2007