HONORS DAY CONVOCAATION

April 19, 2000

Westbrook Auditorium–Presser Hall
11:00 a.m.

Teodora O. Amoloza
Associate Professor of Sociology and
Director of the International Studies Program

Recipient of the 2000 DuPont Award
For Teaching Excellence

“The only ticket out of poverty is education,” said Teodora (Teddy) O. Amoloza, the 2000 recipient of the DuPont Award for Teaching Excellence at Illinois Wesleyan University. And, Amoloza should know.

A native of the Philippines, Amoloza grew up “dirt poor.” She means that literally. “The floor in our house wasn’t concrete--it was dirt,” she recalled, adding that as a youngster she studied by the light of a smoky kerosene lamp.

Despite that life-shaping experience Amoloza went on to college, earning a doctorate in sociology from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln in 1988. And her academic accomplishments are not unique to her eight siblings. “We all went to college and got out of poverty,” she said, proving her family’s mantra: “Poverty is no hindrance to success.”

Amoloza credits this commitment to education to her parents, particularly her father. “Our parents,” she explained, “gave us moral support and in terms of financial support, siblings helped siblings.” Amoloza was an exchange student in Newington, Conn., after she completed high school as class valedictorian. Subsequently, she enrolled on a scholarship in the College of Agriculture at the University of the Philippines in Los Banos, where she completed a five-year program in statistics in just over four years.

She worked at the International Rice Research Institute before returning to the University of the Philippines, where she received a master’s degree in statistics in 1976. She joined her husband in Australia in 1977, when he was working on a master’s degree. Amoloza taught statistics at the University of the Philippines from 1979-82 before she came to the United States to begin her graduate work in sociology.

Amoloza’s personal experiences in international education spurred her interest in the field. Amoloza, who also has served as IWU’s director of international studies since 1993, said: “I want to convey to students excitement about the world. A number of IWU faculty are passionate about international studies.”

Reflecting on the DuPont award, Amoloza said she believes good teachers are good communicators. She confesses to constantly tinkering with new ways to communicate to her students, especially in an electronic age, when computers and the Internet present new challenges and opportunities to students and teachers. Amoloza said her message to students and others is simple: “Take the best advantage of the opportunities you are given. And, if you set your eyes on something that doesn’t work out, you shouldn’t despair--lick your wounds and go on.”

*This program is dedicated to the Class of 2000
and to students who have earned scholastic and activity honors.*
