2015
Convocation for New Students (2015 Program)
Illinois Wesleyan University

Recommended Citation
https://digitalcommons.iwu.edu/new_students_docs/23

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by The Ames Library, the Andrew W. Mellon Center for Curricular and Faculty Development, the Office of the Provost and the Office of the President. It has been accepted for inclusion in Digital Commons @ IWU by the faculty at Illinois Wesleyan University. For more information, please contact digitalcommons@iwu.edu.
©Copyright is owned by the author of this document.
New Student Convocation

On the Tuesday that new students arrive on campus, the New Student Convocation is held at Westbrook Auditorium in Presser Hall. The incoming class is expected to attend to be matriculated into this community of artists and scholars.

President’s Convocation

The President's Convocation opens the academic year with a prominent speaker invited to address the community. All students, faculty and staff are invited to attend. This year’s convocation will be on Wednesday, September 5, 2018 featuring Amy Ellis Nutt, author of the summer reading program selection Becoming Nicole: The Transformation of an American Family and the title of her talk is “The Transformation of the American Family.”

Founders Convocation

Founders Day commemorates the founding of the University in 1850 and honors its academic history. All students, faculty and staff are invited to attend this year’s convocation on Wednesday, January 16, 2019. Previous speakers include U.S. Civil Rights Commissioner Mary Frances Berry, Pulitzer Prize recipient John Updike, and film director Ismail Merchant.

Honors Convocation

Graduating seniors are featured at the Honors Day Convocation, set for Wednesday, April 10, 2019. Presentations by the Senior Class President, the President, the Provost, and other faculty members, including the Kemp Foundation Awardee for Teaching Excellence, make up this program. All students, faculty and staff are invited and encouraged to attend.
CLAIM YOUR EDUCATION PROGRAM

*Please turn off all cell phones and electronic devices.

*Processional (please stand as the Platform Party enters)
  Heldenmusic, TWV 50: Die Wurde (Majesty)  Georg Philipp Telemann  (1681–1767)
  Collin Halihan ’19, Trumpet
  Dr. Susan Klotzbach, Organ, University Organist

*Invocation (remain standing) .......................... Elyse Nelson Winger
  University Chaplain

Audience will please stand

Toccata Louis Vierne

Audience will please stand

*Recessional

The Class of 2022 ....................................... Karla Carney-Hall
  Kemp Foundation Award for Teaching Excellence
  Professor of Hispanic Studies
  Address—“Finding Your New Home in the Liberal Arts” . . . Carmela Ferradáns
  Professor of Hispanic Studies
  Recipient of the 2019 Kemp Foundation Award for Teaching Excellence

The Class of 2022 ....................................... Karla Carney-Hall
  Vice President for Student Affairs/Dean of Students

*Alma Wesleyana (please stand and join in singing) .............. NATIONAL HYMN
  Cameron Kidd ’22  George William Warren  (1828–1902)

From hearts afame, our love we pledge to thee,
Where'er we wander, over land or sea;
Through time unending, loyal we will be—
True to our Alma Mater, Wesleyan.
When college days are fully past and gone,
While life endures, from twilight gleam til dawn,
Grandly thy soul shall with us linger on—
Star-crowned, our Alma Mater, Wesleyan.

Closing. ....................................................... President Jensen

*Recessional (please stand and wait for the Platform Party to leave)
  Toccata  Louis Vierne  (1870–1937)

CARMELA FERRADÁNS

Professor of Spanish Carmela Ferradáns is the 2019 recipient of the Kemp Foundation Award for Teaching Excellence, Illinois Wesleyan University's highest teaching honor.

Dr. Carmela Ferradáns teaches all levels of Spanish language, literature, and cultural history of Spain, as well as writing intensive courses for the Writing Program. In her role as inaugural chair of Illinois Wesleyan’s Council for Excellence in Teaching and Learning, she has ventured into the fields of multimodal pedagogies and digital humanities. She is especially interested in finding connections between visual and written forms of communication.

As a scholar, Dr. Ferradáns is well known for her critical studies on the poetry of Ana Rossetti, particularly her intertextual reading of the Calvin Klein advertising campaign of the 1980s as it intertwines with forms of high art and poetry. She is the editor and translator of Incessant Beauty: A Bilingual Anthology (2014) which offers a wide range of Rossetti's poetry in dual language, Spanish/English. Dr. Ferradáns most recent interests focus on the legacy of the Spanish Civil War; translation theory; and migration and border studies. She is currently doing research on literary representations of the migration crisis in the Mediterranean for a dual language edition of Por la vía de Tarifa / By Way of Tarifa, a collection of short stories by Nieves García Benito.

Dr. Carmela Ferradáns joined the Illinois Wesleyan faculty in 1992 and earned a Ph.D. in Spanish from the University of California, Irvine in 1993. As the 2019 Kemp Award winner, Dr. Ferradáns was recognized by the Faculty Promotion and Tenure Committee for bringing spirit, passion and scholarship to the art of teaching.

ACADEMIC COLORS AND REGALIA

Like judicial robes, the garments worn on academic occasions such as today’s Convocation derive from the ecclesiastical garb of medieval England. The scholar in the Middle Ages, it must be remembered, was a cleric, and therefore required to wear the clerical gown and tonsure. As early as the fourteenth century, scholars of certain colleges were required by statute to wear “a decent habit” befitting a cleric, and no evidence appears that there was much differentiation among undergraduates, bachelor’s, master’s, and doctor’s gowns were worn by all and probably had no academic significance at the beginning. By 1350-40, doctors began to adopt scarlet for their hoods, and by 1500, for their robes, with black retained by the masters of arts and bachelors of divinity. Over the years, distinctions were created to identify various ranks and faculties.

Caps evolved in a similar manner. The round velvet cap is still worn in the full dress of doctors (except doctors in theology); the familiar square, or mortar-board, was copied in the early sixteenth century from the thirteenth century cap of the University of Paris. The “who” and “how” of the wearing of caps has produced numerous rulings, restrictions, and change.

The growth of higher education in the United States during the nineteenth century, when the great land grant colleges and universities were established under the Morrill Act, created a confusion of conflicting styles and colors. The easy identification of one’s academic status by means of cut, fabric, and color was lost. In 1893, however, an intercollegiate commission presented a uniform code for caps, gowns, and hoods to be worn in the United States. The mortarboard caps are the same for doctoral, master’s, and baccalaureate degrees, except that doctors’ caps may be of velvet and may have a gold tassel. The bachelor’s gown is marked by pointed sleeves, reaching to the knee, while the master’s sleeve is squared at the ends, and longer. The doctoral robe is fullest, with rounded bell shaped sleeves marked by three velvet stripes.

The greatest symbol of the academic costume is borne by the hood, which identifies the level of the degree, the faculty (or department of learning) in which it was earned, and the institution that awarded it. The size of the hood, its shape, and the width of its velvet trim identify the level of the degree, with doctoral hoods naturally being the fullest, widest, and longest. Faculty colors tell us the department.

The current Illinois Wesleyan University Mace was crafted in celebration of the inauguration of President Eric R. Jensen and the Class of 2016. The mace replaces the The Eckley Mace, which was first carried at the 1969 inauguration of Dr. Robert S. Eckley, the 15th president of the University. Made of bronze for power and endurance and of walnut for organic strength, its cupola represents the bell tower of Old North Hall, Illinois Wesleyan’s first building, which was erected in 1856 and demolished in 1967. State Farm Hall now sits on the former site of Old North. The staff of the Mace was made from the walnut of Old North Hall and was used on the Eckley mace. The names of University founders’ are engraved on a band surrounding the cupola.

The mace was cast and constructed by Kevin Strandberg, Professor of Art.
please turn off all cell phones and electronic devices.

*Processional (please stand as the Platform Party enters)
Heldenmusic, TWV 50: Die Wurde (Majesty)
Collin Halihan ‘19, Trumpet
Dr. Susan Klotzbach, Organ, University Organist

*Invocation (remain standing) ............................................. Elyse Nelson Winger
University Chaplain

Audience will please stand

Grandly thy soul shall with us linger on —
While life endures, from twilight gleam til dawn,
When college days are fully past and gone,
True to our Alma Mater, Wesleyan.

Where'er we wander, over land or sea;
From hearts aflame, our love we pledge to thee,
Through time unending, loyal we will be —
True to our Alma Mater, Wesleyan.

Closing. .........................................................President Jensen

*Audience will please stand

Dr. Carmela Ferradáns
Professor of Spanish Carmela Ferradáns is the 2019 recipient of the Kemp Foundation Award for Teaching Excellence, Illinois Wesleyan University’s highest teaching honor.

As a scholar, Dr. Ferradáns is well known for her critical studies on the poetry of Ana Rossetti, particularly her intertextual reading of the Calvin Klein advertising campaign of the 1980s as it intertwines with forms of high art and poetry. She is the editor and translator of Incendio: Doce poemas (2014) which offers a wide range of Rossetti’s poetry in dual language, Spanish/English.

Dr. Ferradáns teaches all levels of Spanish language, literature, and cultural history of Spain, as well as writing intensive courses for the Writing Program. In her role as inaugural chair of Illinois Wesleyan’s Council for Excellence in Teaching and Learning, she has ventured into the fields of multimodal pedagogies and digital humanities. She is especially interested in finding connections between visual and written forms of communication.

In his role as inaugural chair of Illinois Wesleyan’s Council for Excellence in Teaching and Learning, he has ventured into the fields of multimodal pedagogies and digital humanities. He is especially interested in finding connections between visual and written forms of communication.

Dr. Ferradáns has been recognized by the Faculty Promotion and Tenure Committee for bringing spirit, passion and scholarship to the art of teaching.

ACADEMIC COLORS AND REGALIA

Like judicial robes, the garments worn on academic occasions such as today’s Convocation derive from the ecclesiastical garb of medieval England. The scholar in the Middle Ages, it must be remembered, was a clerk, and therefore required to wear the clerical gown and tonsure. As early as the fourteenth century, scholars of certain colleges were required by statute to wear “a decent habit” befitting a clerk, and no evidence appears that there was much differentiation among undergraduates, bachelor’s, master’s and doctoral gowns were worn by all and probably had no academic significance at the beginning. By 1350-60, doctors began to adopt scarlet for their hoods, and by 1500, for their robes, with black retained by the masters of arts and bachelors of divinity. Over the years, distinctions were created to identify various ranks and faculties.

Caps evolved in a similar manner. The round velvet cap is still worn in the full dress of doctors (except doctors in theology); the familiar square, or mortarboard, was copied in the early sixteenth century from the thirteenth century cap of the University of Paris. The “who” and “how” of the wearing of caps has produced numerous rulings, restrictions, and change.

The easiest and most quick way to recognize the academic status of a student is by his or her academic regalia. The easiest way to recognize the academic status of a student is by his or her academic regalia. The greatest symbol of the academic costume is borne by the hood, which identifies the level of the degree, the faculty or department of learning in which it was earned, and the institution that awarded it. The size of the hood, its shape, and the width of its velvet trim identify the level of the degree, with doctoral hoods naturally being the fullest, widest, and longest. Faculty colors tell us the department.

The growth of higher education in the United States during the nineteenth century, when the great land grant colleges and universities were established under the Morrill Act, created a confusion of conflicting styles and colors. The easy identification of one’s academic status by means of cut, fabric, and color was lost. In 1893, however, an intercollegiate commission presented a uniform code for caps, gowns, and hoods to be worn in the United States. The mortarboard caps are the same for doctoral, master’s, and baccalaureate degrees, except that doctors’ caps may be of velvet and may have a gold tassel. The bachelor’s gown is marked by pointed sleeves, reaching to the knee, while the master’s sleeve is squared at the ends, and longer. The doctoral robe is fullest, with rounded bell shaped sleeves marked by three velvet stripes.

The grand climax of the academic costume is the hood, which identifies the level of the degree, the faculty (or department of learning) in which it was earned, and the institution that awarded it. The size of the hood, its shape, and the width of its velvet trim identify the level of the degree, with doctoral hoods naturally being the fullest, widest, and longest. Faculty colors tell us the department.

The current Illinois Wesleyan University Mace was crafted in celebration of the inauguration of President Eric R. Jensen and the Class of 2016. The mace replaces the The Eckley Mace, which was first carried at the 1969 inauguration of Dr. Robert S. Eckley, the 15th president of the University.

The mace was cast and constructed by Kevin Strandberg, Professor of Art.
New Student Convocation

On the Tuesday that new students arrive on campus, the New Student Convocation is held at Westbrook Auditorium in Presser Hall. The incoming class is expected to attend to be matriculated into this community of artists and scholars.

President’s Convocation

The President’s Convocation opens the academic year with a prominent speaker invited to address the community. All students, faculty and staff are invited to attend. This year’s convocation will be on Wednesday, September 5, 2018 featuring Amy Ellis Nutt, author of the summer reading program selection “Becoming Nicole: The Transformation of an American Family” and the title of her talk is “The Transformation of the American Family.”

Founders Convocation

Founders Day commemorates the founding of the University in 1850 and honors its academic history. All students, faculty and staff are invited to attend this year’s convocation on Wednesday, January 16, 2019. Previous speakers include U.S. Civil Rights Commissioner Mary Frances Berry, Pulitzer Prize recipient John Updike, and film director Ismail Merchant.

Honors Convocation

Graduating seniors are featured at the Honors Day Convocation, set for Wednesday, April 10, 2019. Presentations by the Senior Class President, the President, the Provost, and other faculty members, including the Kemp Foundation Awardee for Teaching Excellence, make up this program. All students, faculty and staff are invited and encouraged to attend.