Kevin Smith

Writer, Film Director

He has been called "the King of Gen X cinema."

Writer and filmmaker Kevin Smith received critical acclaim for his 1994 debut movie, Clerks, made on a shoestring $27,575 budget.

"After a semester of college and four months of film school," Time magazine reported in 1997, "Smith found himself back home working for $5 an hour at Quick Stop, a convenience store. Light bulb! Why not a movie based on the life of a convenience store clerk? He wrote Clerks in a month and shot it at the store after hours, in black and white." Clerks, a surprise critical and commercial hit, won prestigious awards from the Sundance Film Festival and the Cannes Film Festival.

Smith, who was born in 1970 in Red Bank, N.J., was co-executive producer of the Academy Award-winning film, Good Will Hunting. The 1997 movie, according to a synopsis, is about a "South Boston whiz kid [who] elects to clean the halls of learning rather than enter them, slumming his way through life as a janitor at [the Massachusetts Institute of Technology]." The film was written by and starred Matt Damon and Ben Affleck.

Smith's professional trademark has been writing and directing cutting-edge independent films, including Mallrats, Chasing Amy, and Dogma. Smith's films attract some of Hollywood's hottest young screen talent. Chasing Amy, a '90s take on boy-meets girl, featured Affleck and Joey Lauren Adams, and won the Independent Spirit Award for Best Original Screenplay. Dogma, a "comic fantasia," featured Affleck, Damon, Linda Fiorentino, Salma Hayek, and Chris Rock.

Clerks, Mallrats, and Chasing Amy comprise Smith's New Jersey trilogy. "All three films, however distinct in their narrative presentation and comedic style," according to Smith's production company web site, "share common themes. All are situated in the central New Jersey suburbs where Smith grew up and continues to work and live." Smith said that all three of the films depict a time that "for many was painful and forgettable: the years just after high school and beyond when we're being forced into adulthood. Everything seems raw and dramatic then. And when falling in love, emotional for us at any age, is especially turbulent."

"My generation believes we can do almost anything," Smith told Time magazine in the 1997 article. "My characters are free: no social mores keep them in check."

Smith is an avid comic book fan. He is the owner of Jay and Silent Bob's Secret Stash, a comic book haven located in Redbank, N.J. Smith also has written his own comic book titles, such as Jay & Silent Bob and Clerks: The Comic. Among other comic book projects are Daredevil for Marvel Comics.

Smith also spends much time at the web site of his company, View Askew Productions, at www.viewaskew.com, chatting with his fans.

Smith and his wife, Jennifer, are the parents of a daughter, Harley Quinn, who was born on June 26, 1999.

Academic Colors and Regalia

Like judicial robes, the garments worn on academic occasions such as today's Commencement derive from the ecclesiastical garb of medieval England. The scholar in the Middle Ages, it must be remembered, was a clerk, and therefore required to wear the clerical gown and tonsure. Certainly, at Oxford and Cambridge, at least in the earliest times, the robes were monastic in origin, although the hood was adapted from a lay garment common to both sexes and all classes.

As early as the fourteenth Century, scholars of certain colleges were required by statute to wear "a decent habit" befitting a clerk and no evidence appears that there was much differentiation among undergraduates, bachelor's, master's and doctoral robes. All were black, commonly of lamb's wool; most were fur-lined for warmth, or at least fur trimmed; and the only mark of difference was in the fuller cut and ankle length of the master's gown. The cope, or closed cape, was also black and followed the style of the everyday mantle of the clergy.

Hoods were worn by all and probably had no academical significance at the beginning. By 1330-40 doctors began to adopt scarlet for their hoods, and by 1500, for their robes, with black retained by the masters of arts and bachelors of divinity. An act of Henry VIII in 1533 ratified the wearing of robes of other colors. Hoods were lined with silk and miniver fur, a custom surviving until the late seventeenth Century, but over the years distinctions were created to identify the various ranks and faculties.

Caps evolved in similar manner. The round velvet cap is still worn today in the full dress of doctors (except doctors in theology); the familiar square, or mortar-board, was copied in the early sixteenth Century from the thirteenth Century cap of the University of Paris. A third style also derives from Paris: a squared cap made by sewing four pieces of cloth with seams producing ridged edges, seen in modern times in the biretta of the clergy and the squared velvet cap of doctors of theology. The "who" and "how" of the wearing of caps produced numerous rulings, restrictions and change.

The Reformation repressed the brilliant silks, gold lace, costly furs and extravagant cut of academic robes, and the sober and more uniform styles are, for the most part, what we see today.

However, the growth of higher education in the United States during the nineteenth Century, when the great land grant colleges and universities were established under the Morrill Act, created a confusion of conflicting styles and colors. The easy identification of one's academic status by means of cut, fabric and color was no longer true.

In 1893 an intercollegiate commission presented a uniform code for caps, gowns and hoods to be worn in the United States. The mortarboard caps are the same for doctoral, master's and baccalaureate degrees, except that doctors' caps may be of velvet and may have a gold tassel. The bachelor's gown is marked by pointed sleeves, reaching to the knee, while the master's sleeve is squared at the ends, and longer. The doctoral robe is fullest, with rounded bell shaped sleeves marked by three velvet stripes.

The greatest symbolism of the academic costume is borne by the hood, which identifies the level of the degree, the faculty (or department of learning) in which it was earned, and the institution which awarded it. The size of the hood, its shape and the width of its velvet trim identify the level of the degree, with doctoral hoods naturally being the fullest, widest and longest. Faculty colors tell us the department.

Today's graduates will be wearing white for the College of Liberal Arts, pink for the School of Music, apricot for the School of Nursing, golden yellow for the sciences, and brown for the fine arts. Faculty members in the processional may be wearing light blue for education, copper for economics, drab for business and accountancy, orange for engineering, purple for law, lemon for library science, green for medicine, apricot for nursing, dark blue for philosophy, sage green for physical sciences, cream for social sciences and scarlet for theology, among the many available. The colors are mandatory on hoods, but may also be used on the tassels and/or the velvet on doctoral gowns.

The university or college is usually identified by the color of the hood lining. Two colors are frequently used, since there are approximately 2,000 degree-granting institutions in the United States. A few, such as Harvard, Yale, Princeton and the University of Chicago, use a single color. Illinois Wesleyan's green and white was adopted in 1888.

The Illinois Wesleyan University Mace, first carried at the 1969 inauguration of Dr. Robert S. Eckley as fifteenth president of the University, is also a striking symbol of the institution. Made of bronze for power and endurance and of walnut for organic strength, its cupola represents the bell tower of Old North Hall, Illinois Wesleyan's first building, which was erected in 1856 and demolished in 1967 to make way for Sheean Library. The bell suggests the Hedding Bell, a campus landmark since 1931, when it was installed on the IWU campus after peeling for generations at Hedding College, now defunct. The staff of the Mace is made from the walnut of Old North Hall, and the names of Illinois Wesleyan's presidents are engraved on its bronze base.

Prior and during the Commencement ceremony, the Illinois Wesleyan Alumni Association will sponsor a hospitality tent serving complimentary beverages. The tent is located on the east side of the Eckley Quadrangle in front of Holmes Hall. A first-aid station is located in the tent. In the Shirk Center, these services will be available in the lobby.

On the Eckley Quadrangle, restrooms are located on the first floor of following buildings: Shaw Hall, Memorial Student Center and Holmes Hall. In the Shirk Center, the restrooms are located to the north of the main lobby.

Following the ceremony, you are invited to a short reception in the tents on the south and west sides of the Eckley Quadrangle. If the ceremony is in the Shirk Center, the reception will be in the Activity Center.
