NATIONAL HYMN
George William Warren
(1828-1902)
arr. Peter Andrew Gilbert '98

From hearts aflame, our love we pledge to thee,
Where'er we wander, over land or sea;
Through time unending loyal we will be—
True to our Alma Mater, Wesleyan.

When college days are fully past and gone,
While life endures, from twilight dream till dawn,
Grandly thy soul shall with us linger on—
Star-crowned, our Alma Mater, Wesleyan!

—Professor W. E. Schultz
(1887-1964)

Frankie R. Faison '71

Actor

Who is Frankie R. Faison?

A working class man. A too-complacent spouse. A gruff, desk-bound commanding officer. The crazy landlord. A no-nonsense storeowner. A brain-damaged, horn-playing uncle named Gabriel. A conscientious prison guard. A dignified night watchman.

Frankie Faison is, of course, all of these. And more. Since he began acting in pageants in his hometown of Newport News, Va., Faison has portrayed a countless array of characters in a career that has garnered major award nominations and glowing reviews for his performances in motion pictures, on and off Broadway, and on television.

Faison's considerable talent is well known at Illinois Wesleyan. He had the lead role in the School of Theatre Arts' first predominantly black production, A Raisin in the Sun, which he has called "my defining moment, my coming of age." Other roles included The Tempest, and Oh, What a Lovely War. Off stage, Faison gave equally impressive performances as an All-State tight end on IWU's football team, played tennis, was active in the Black Student Association and a member of Theta Chi fraternity.

After IWU, Faison went to New York University, from which he earned the M.F.A. in theatre before beginning his professional career.

On Broadway, Faison earned Tony and Drama Desk nominations for Best Supporting Actor for his portrayal of the brain-damaged Gabriel to James Earl Jones's character in August Wilson's Pulitzer-winning play, Fences. His other Broadway appearances have included Getting Away with Murder, Of Mice and Men, and revivals of The Iceman Cometh and The Shadow Box.

While he calls theatre his "first love," Faison is probably best known for his work in the 1991 Oscar-winning film, The Silence of the Lambs and more recently in its sequel Hannibal. In both movies, Faison played the memorable role of the conscientious prison guard, Barney, to critical acclaim. He will reprise that role in the forthcoming Hannibal "prequel," Red Dragon, which will also feature Anthony Hopkins in the role of Hannibal. Other recent projects include Thirteen Conversations About 1 Thing with Matthew McConaughey, and Gods and Generals with Robert Duval.

Other films in his impressive body of work include The Thomas Crown Affair, The Rich Man's Wife, the adaptation of Kurt Vonnegut's Mother Night, Mississippi Burning, Do the Right Thing, Coming to America, Manhunter, The Money Pit, The Chosen, Sommersby, and Ragtime, where Faison worked with James Cagney on the screen legend's last film.

Faison will head the ensemble cast in a new HBO series, The Wire, this fall. Other television credits include appearances as a regular in True Colors, in which he played opposite IWU alumna Stephanie Faracy, and the ABC series Prey. He has also guest-starred on Cosby, New York Undercover, and Law and Order. In addition, he has been featured in the mini-series The Langoliers, the made-for-television movies Sessions and Common Ground, as well as in the PBS specials King Lear and Tomorrow's Families.

As an alum, Faison received the IWU Minority Alumni Network Award in 1996. He is married to Jane Mandel, the founding producer/director of Luna Stage, a non-profit equity theatre in Montclair, N.J., where the couple resides. They have three daughters.

Robert M. Reardon, M.D. Ophthalmologist, Trustee

Bob Reardon told Illinois Wesleyan graduates that life is full of "wonder and awe, opportunity and challenge" when he addressed them in 1983. His own life experiences reflect that conviction.

He twice served at Hospital Albert Schweitzer in Haiti, where he reestablished ophthalmic services, including surgery. He is a founding member of the Community Health Care Clinic, which has provided free medical services in McLean County for nearly 8 years. He studied health care systems in Russia, China, and Canada, and was adjunct professor of biology at Illinois University State for 25 years, teaching a course on the eye to students who would teach children with hardships. He serves on the board of Bloomington's Scott Commission, which initiates and funds new ways to provide dental, pharmaceutical, and health care to disadvantaged citizens.

Challenges, and opportunities to help others. Reardon accomplished all this and more in the midst of a medical career that began 48 years ago.

Reardon attended Virginia Military Institute and received his undergraduate degree from Wesleyan University in Middletown, Ct. A New York native, he recently received the Distinguished Alumnus Award from Poly Prep Country Day School in Brooklyn, which he attended for eight years.

He earned his medical degree from the State University of New York, Downstate Medical Center at Brooklyn, serving his internship and residency at Lenox Hill Hospital in New York City. After serving as Chief of Ophthalmology at Maxwell Air Force Base in Montgomery, Al., he began a 32-year affiliation with Gailey Eye Clinic in Bloomington.

Reardon was elected president of the McLean County Medical Society thirty years ago, and the medical community continues to benefit from his contributions to this day. He was elected alternate or delegate to both the American Medical Association (11 years) and Illinois State Medical Society House of Delegates (12 years), where he was also elected vice speaker and speaker.

As first vice president, president elect and president of the 18,000-member Illinois State Medical Society from 1989 through 1992, Reardon was in the forefront of discussion regarding the Clinton Administration proposals for national health care reform. As past ISMS president, he initiated a statewide conference on establishing free medical clinics, with Illinois now the leading state in providing such clinics in the United States. He continues to serve on the Board of Governors and committees of the Illinois State Medical Inter-Insurance Exchange Mutual, the sixth-largest medical malpractice insurance company in the United States.

Joining the Illinois Wesleyan University Board of Trustees in 1978, Reardon chaired the Academic Affairs Committee and served as Secretary and First Vice President of the Board. His committee service includes the 1989 Search Committee that brought President Minor Myers, jr. to campus, along with the 1990 Campaign for Illinois Wesleyan and specific campaigns for the Center for Natural Sciences and The Ames Library.

When he started his term as president of the Illinois State Medical Society, Reardon described a physician as "a healer, a listener, a counselor and more." Those are the roles he plays on the Illinois Wesleyan Board of Trustees, too, as unofficial counselor, mentor and cheerleader. His resounding motions and commentaries are a highlight of many meetings.

Reardon retires from the Board of Trustees this year and will continue as Emeritus Trustee. The University owes a debt of gratitude to him and his wife, Vivian, and their son, Robert, Jr., for their devoted interest in Illinois Wesleyan.

Academic Colors and Regalia

Like judicial robes, the garments worn on academic occasions such as today's Commencement derive from the ecclesiastical garb of medieval England. The scholar in the Middle Ages, it must be remembered, was a clerk, and therefore required to wear the clerical gown and tonsure. Certainly, at Oxford and Cambridge, at least in the earliest times, the robes were monastic in origin, although the hood was adapted from a lay garment common to both sexes and all classes.

As early as the fourteenth Century, scholars of certain colleges were required by statute to wear "a decent habit" befitting a clerk and no evidence appears that there was much differentiation among undergraduates, bachelor's, master's and doctoral robes. All were black, commonly of lamb's wool; most were fur-lined for warmth, or at least fur trimmed; and the only mark of difference was in the fuller cut and ankle length of the master's gown. The cope, or closed cape, was also black and followed the style of the everyday mantle of the clergy.

Hoods were worn by all and probably had no academical significance at the beginning. By 1330-40 doctors began to adopt scarlet for their hoods, and by 1500, for their robes, with black retained by the masters of arts and bachelors of divinity. An act of Henry VIII in 1533 ratified the wearing of robes of other colors. Hoods were lined with silk and miniver fur, a custom surviving until the late seventeenth Century, but over the years distinctions were created to identify the various ranks and faculties.

Caps evolved in similar manner. The round velvet cap is still worn today in the full dress of doctors (except doctors in theology); the familiar square, or mortar-board, was copied in the early sixteenth Century from the thirteenth Century cap of the University of Paris. A third style also derives from Paris: a squared cap made by sewing four pieces of cloth with seams producing ridged edges, seen in modern times in the biretta of the clergy and the squared velvet cap of doctors of theology. The "who" and "how" of the wearing of caps produced numerous rulings, restrictions and change.

The Reformation repressed the brilliant silks, gold lace, costly furs and extravagant cut of academic robes, and the sober and more uniform styles are, for the most part, what we see today.

However, the growth of higher education in the United States during the nineteenth Century, when the great land grant colleges and universities were established under the Morrill Act, created a confusion of conflicting styles and colors. The easy identification of one's academic status by means of cut, fabric and color was no longer true.

In 1893 an intercollegiate commission presented a uniform code for caps, gowns and hoods to be worn in the United States. The mortarboard caps are the same for doctoral, master's and baccalaureate degrees, except that doctors' caps may be of velvet and may have a gold tassel. The bachelor's gown is marked by pointed sleeves, reaching to the knee, while the master's sleeve is squared at the ends, and longer. The doctoral robe is fullest, with rounded bell shaped sleeves marked by three velvet stripes.

The greatest symbolism of the academic costume is borne by the hood, which identifies the level of the degree, the faculty (or department of learning) in which it was earned, and the institution which awarded it. The size of the hood, its shape and the width of its velvet trim identify the level of the degree, with doctoral hoods naturally being the fullest, widest and longest. Faculty colors tell us the department.

Today's graduates will be wearing white for the College of Liberal Arts, pink for the School of Music, apricot for the School of Nursing, golden yellow for the sciences, and brown for the fine arts. Faculty members in the processional may be wearing light blue for education, copper for economics, drab for business and accountancy, orange for engineering, purple for law, lemon for library science, green for medicine, apricot for nursing, dark blue for philosophy, sage green for physical sciences, cream for social sciences and scarlet for theology, among the many available. The colors are mandatory on hoods, but may also be used on the tassels and/or the velvet on doctoral gowns.

The university or college is usually identified by the color of the hood lining. Two colors are frequently used, since there are approximately 2,000 degree-granting institutions in the United States. A few, such as Harvard, Yale, Princeton and the University of Chicago, use a single color. Illinois Wesleyan's green and white was adopted in 1888.

The Illinois Wesleyan University Mace, first carried at the 1969 inauguration of Dr. Robert S. Eckley as fifteenth president of the University, is also a striking symbol of the institution. Made of bronze for power and endurance and of walnut for organic strength, its cupola represents the bell tower of Old North Hall, Illinois Wesleyan's first building, which was erected in 1856 and demolished in 1967 to make way for Sheean Library. The bell suggests the Hedding Bell, a campus landmark since 1931, when it was installed on the IWU campus after peeling for generations at Hedding College, now defunct. The staff of the Mace is made from the walnut of Old North Hall, and the names of Illinois Wesleyan's presidents are engraved on its bronze base.

Prior to and during the Commencement ceremony, the Illinois Wesleyan Alumni Association will sponsor a hospitality tent serving complimentary beverages. The tent is located on the east side of the Eckley Quadrangle in front of Holmes Hall. A first-aid station is located in the tent. In the Shirk Center, these services will be available in the lobby.

Near the Eckley Quadrangle, restrooms are located on the first floor of following buildings: Shaw Hall, Memorial Student Center and Holmes Hall. In the Shirk Center, the restrooms are located to the north of the main lobby.

Following the ceremony, you are invited to a short reception in the tents on Eckley Quadrangle. If the ceremony is in the Shirk Center, the reception will be in the Activity Center.
