ROBERT E. PAGE '58
President and Publisher,
The Chicago Sun-Times

Robert E. Page brought a distinguished record with him to Chicago when he was named president and publisher of the Chicago Sun-Times in January 1984. He had previously revitalized the stagnant Boston Herald, increasing its circulation by more than 27 percent, and served as general manager of the San Antonio Express News, both properties of News Corporation Limited, owned by Australian media magnate Rupert Murdoch.

As a reporter and executive with United Press International for 20 years, Page was the wire service's midwest business manager in Chicago from 1964 to 1967 before moving on to other executive assignments in New York, Boston, London and Hong Kong. He was UPI's youngest vice president at the time he headed its Asian operations in 1972. He rose to vice president and general manager before leaving UPI in 1980.

Page's assignment with the Sun-Times marked a return home to Illinois where he was born, attended college and started his newspaper career on the old Illinois State Journal in Springfield in 1952 as a teen age sports reporter.

In addition to his responsibilities at the Sun-Times, he also serves as chairman of the News America Syndicate, worldwide distributor of such popular features as the columns of Ann Landers, Carl Rowan and Evans and Novak, as well as comic strips and other newspaper features.

In 1979 Illinois Wesleyan honored Page as Outstanding Alumnus. He is a member of the Society of Professional Journalists, Sigma Delta Chi, and Sigma Chi social fraternity, which recognized him as a Significant Sig in 1981.

He is married to Nancy Merrill, a television news interviewer, and is the father of two sons, Douglas and Stephen, and two stepdaughters, Christina and Amanda.

In Chicago, Page is a principal of Chicago United and a member of the boards of the Chicago Central Area Committee, American Cancer Society, the Chicago Association of Commerce and Industry and the Lyric Opera.

He is a trustee of Mundelein College, the Illinois Better Schools task force and is actively involved with the Chicago Boys and Girls Club and the Better Boys Foundations.
