

2006

About the Authors

Follow this and additional works at: <https://digitalcommons.iwu.edu/constructing>

Recommended Citation

(2006) "About the Authors," Constructing the Past: Vol. 7: Iss. 1, Article 3.
Available at: <https://digitalcommons.iwu.edu/constructing/vol7/iss1/3>

This Prefatory Note is protected by copyright and/or related rights. It has been brought to you by Digital Commons @ IWU with permission from the rights-holder(s). You are free to use this material in any way that is permitted by the copyright and related rights legislation that applies to your use. For other uses you need to obtain permission from the rights-holder(s) directly, unless additional rights are indicated by a Creative Commons license in the record and/ or on the work itself. This material has been accepted for inclusion by the Constructing History editorial board and the History Department at Illinois Wesleyan University. For more information, please contact digitalcommons@iwu.edu.

©Copyright is owned by the author of this document.

About the Authors

Constructing the Past

About the Authors

Erie Roberts is a senior History and English major and Historian of Phi Alpha Theta, as well as Editor-in-Chief of Constructing the Past. Her paper, Architecture of the Millennium: Catharine Beecher, Domestic Economy, and Social Reform was written in the fall semester of 2005 for Dr. Bushnell's senior seminar course, History 490: Reforming the American Republic.

Matthew Cassady is a senior History major and President of Phi Alpha Theta. His paper, Our Liberty Most Dear: The Political Reforms of John C. Calhoun, was written for Dr. Bushnell's senior seminar course, History 490: Reforming the American Republic in the fall semester of 2005.

Megan Mondri is a senior History and English double major, with certification in secondary education. She is the Treasurer for Phi Alpha Theta. Her paper, "Connected and Unified?": A More Critical Look at Frederick Jackson Turner's America, was written for Dr. Robert Schultz's History 347 class, Artisans Workers and Robber Barons: The Commercial and Industrial Transformation of the United States during the fall semester of 2005.

Kathryn White, a History major, graduated in May of 2005. Her History Honors research project, Through Their Eyes: Buffalo Bill's Wild West as a Drawing Table for American Identity, was written in the spring of 2005.

Natalie Burda, a History major, graduated in May of 2005. Her paper, Orthodoxy as a Means of Becoming Good Jewish Americans: Two Orphanages in Chicago, was written in the spring of 2005 for Dr. April Schultz's senior seminar course, History 490:

Jenna Simpson, a History major, graduated in May of 2005. Her paper, Reforming the Stage and Screen: How Expectations, Audiences, and Economics Shaped the Film and Theatre Censorship Movements in Early-1930s New York, was given honors from the History department in the spring of 2005.

Sarah Willms is a senior History major with a minor in Psychology and she is the Vice-President of Phi Alpha Theta. Her paper, The Five Knights' Case and Debates in the Parliament of 1628: Division and Suspicion Under King Charles I, was written for Dr. Young's senior seminar course, History 490: Kings and Parliaments during the spring semester of 2005.

Margaret Bertram, a History major with secondary education certification, graduated in May of 2005. Her paper, "Neutralism" in Worcestershire, was written for Dr. Young's senior seminar course, History 490: Kings and Parliaments during the spring semester of 2006.

Molly McLay is a senior English and Woman Studies major. Her paper, From Wollstonecraft to Mill: The Varied Positions and Influences of the European Women's Rights Movement, was written for Dr. April Schultz's History 244 course, Women and the American Experience in the spring semester of 2005.

Emily Ergang is a senior History and Political Science double major and a member of Phi Alpha Theta. Her paper, Speer: An Artist or a Monster, was written for Dr. Horwitz's History 325 course, Modern Germany in the fall of 2005.

Elizabeth Johnson, a History major, is a junior who is currently studying abroad. Her paper, Blood, Power, and Privilege: Why the Man Who Ordered the Slaughter of a Race Was Not Racist, was written for Dr. Young's sophomore seminar course History 290. For their final paper assignment, students critically examined the concept of truth in history by researching a controversial historical event.