WE STAND IN A POSITION OF INCALCULABLE RESPONSIBILITY TO THE GREAT WAVE OF POPULATION OVERSPEADING THE VALLEY OF THE MISSISSIPPI. DESTINY SEEMS TO POINT OUT THIS VALLEY AS THE DEPOSITORY OF THE GREAT HEART OF THE NATION. FROM THIS CENTER, MIGHTY PULSATIONS, FOR GOOD OR EVIL, MUST IN THE FUTURE FLOW, WHICH SHALL NOT ONLY AFFECT THE FORTUNE OF THE REPUBLIC, BUT REACH IN THEIR INFLUENCE OTHER AND DISTANT NATIONS OF THE EARTH.

Dr. Naomi Oreskes

Dr. Naomi Oreskes serves as a professor of the history of science and affiliated professor of earth and planetary sciences at Harvard University. She is an internationally renowned geologist, science historian and author.

Oreskes arrived at Harvard in 2013 after spending 15 years as a professor of history and science studies at the University of California, San Diego, and as an adjunct professor of geosciences at the Scripps Institution of Oceanography. Oreskes’s research focuses on the earth and environmental sciences, with a particular interest in understanding scientific consensus and dissent.

In 2014, Oreskes met Pope Francis during a special meeting at the Vatican on climate change and sustainability, and in 2015, she wrote the introduction to the Melville House edition of the Papal Encyclical on Climate Change and Inequality, Laudato Si’.

Oreskes’ talk is a co-curricular event which complements Illinois Wesleyan’s annual intellectual theme “Changing Climates.”

Jensen Mace

This use of the Jensen Mace was crafted in celebration of the inauguration of President Eric R. Jensen and the Class of 2016. The mace replaces the The Eckley Mace, which was first carried at the 1969 inauguration of Dr. Robert S. Eckley, the 15th president of the University.

Made of bronze for power and endurance and of walnut for organic strength, its cupola represents the bell tower of Old North Hall, Illinois Wesleyan’s first building, which was erected in 1856 and demolished in 1967. State Farm Hall now sits on the former site of Old North. The staff of the Mace was made from the walnut of Old North Hall and was used on the Eckley mace. The names of University founders are engraved on a band surrounding the cupola.

The mace was cast and constructed by Kevin Strandberg, retired Professor Emeritus of Art.
