

1-1-2000

Introduction

Kathryn Vojack '00
Illinois Wesleyan University

Todd Zoellick '00
Illinois Wesleyan University

Follow this and additional works at: <https://digitalcommons.iwu.edu/respublica>

Recommended Citation

Vojack '00, Kathryn and Zoellick '00, Todd (2000) "Introduction," Res Publica - Journal of Undergraduate Research: Vol. 5

Available at: <https://digitalcommons.iwu.edu/respublica/vol5/iss1/2>

This Prefatory Notes is protected by copyright and/or related rights. It has been brought to you by Digital Commons @ IWU with permission from the rights-holder(s). You are free to use this material in any way that is permitted by the copyright and related rights legislation that applies to your use. For other uses you need to obtain permission from the rights-holder(s) directly, unless additional rights are indicated by a Creative Commons license in the record and/ or on the work itself. This material has been accepted for inclusion by editorial board of Res Publica and the Political Science Department at Illinois Wesleyan University. For more information, please contact digitalcommons@iwu.edu.

©Copyright is owned by the author of this document.

Introduction

Introduction

Res Publica, in its fifth year of publication, is a unique undergraduate journal of original research compiled and analyzed by Illinois Wesleyan University students across the many and varying sub-fields of political science. This journal includes some of the highest quality work and effort that our department produces, depicting the excellence demanded of our students.

This edition includes a diverse range of topics from American politics to comparative legislative institution to political thought. The diversity contained in this volume is a sample of the areas of study open to political scientists and research opportunities available to students. It is our desire that this edition of Res Publica exposes readers to research topics in political science and evokes future research questions...

Kathryn Vojack and Todd Zoellick
Res Publica Editors