BLOOMINGTON, Ill. – Rogy's Learning Place, in cooperation with Advocate BroMenn Medical Center, Illinois State University and Illinois Wesleyan University will open in the fall. The childcare facility is currently under construction on the corner of Main and Harris Streets in Normal.

Originally targeted for late August, the opening is now expected to occur in mid-September, due to some minor construction delays. A firm opening date will be announced as soon as it is finalized.

Once opened, the 13,000 square-foot facility will accommodate 180 children ages six-weeks-old to 12-years-old and will offer priority placement to the children of employees, faculty and staff of BroMenn, ISU and IWU. The center will be open Monday thru Friday from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m.
