THIS IS WHAT FEMINISM LOOKS LIKE

Hannah Detig and Rebecca Gearhart*

Sociology and Anthropology Department, Illinois Wesleyan University

After spending a number of weeks attending meetings and getting to know the members of the Feminist Majority League Association (FMLA) on Illinois Wesleyan's campus, I have come to see that there is not one definition or image that can describe this diverse group of women. They are drawn together not by a common understanding of the term feminism, but by a deep respect for social justice and human rights. Through employing methods of still photography and collaborative ethnography, it has been made evident that while these women may not have the same understanding of the term feminism, they do have a common understanding of what it means to be human. It is by first accepting humanity, that women can find their full and equal rights.
