RUSSIA'S INTERNATIONAL ADOPTION POLICIES: REALITIES OF THE SOVIET HAPPY CHILDHOOD MYTH

Hannah Freeman and Marina Balina *

International Studies Department, Illinois Wesleyan University

The Myth of Happy Childhood: Russia's International Adoption Policies, focuses on dispelling the Soviet myth of happy childhood through revealing the numerous groups of children who were systematically left out of this upbringing. My presentation focuses in particular on the plight of orphans in the USSR and continues to follow their childhood experience through investigating the intercountry adoption policies between the U.S. and Russia. My research aims to dispel the laws and regulations that are currently in place within the Russian orphanages and adoption system through real life experience including personal interviews that were conducted with American parents of Russian adoptees.
