

Apr 8th, 10:00 AM - 11:00 AM

Restorative Practice in the Elementary Classroom

Amy Sanchez
Illinois Wesleyan University

Leah Nillas, Faculty Advisor
Illinois Wesleyan University

Follow this and additional works at: <https://digitalcommons.iwu.edu/jwprc>

Part of the Education Commons

Sanchez, Amy and Nillas, Faculty Advisor, Leah, "Restorative Practice in the Elementary Classroom" (2017). John Wesley Powell Student Research Conference. 4.
<https://digitalcommons.iwu.edu/jwprc/2017/oralpresES/4>

This Event is protected by copyright and/or related rights. It has been brought to you by Digital Commons @ IWU with permission from the rights-holder(s). You are free to use this material in any way that is permitted by the copyright and related rights legislation that applies to your use. For other uses you need to obtain permission from the rights-holder(s) directly, unless additional rights are indicated by a Creative Commons license in the record and/ or on the work itself. This material has been accepted for inclusion by faculty at The Ames Library at Illinois Wesleyan University. For more information, please contact digitalcommons@iwu.edu.

©Copyright is owned by the author of this document.

Oral Presentation ES O2.1

RESTORATIVE PRACTICES IN THE ELEMENTARY CLASSROOM

Amy Sanchez and Leah Nillas*

Educational Studies, Illinois Wesleyan University

Suspensions are still a widely used approach in school's discipline despite the lack of evidence that they prevent future misbehavior (Gregory, Clawson, Davis, & Gerewitz, 2016). Restorative practices are an alternative discipline method whose core values are to repair the harm, reduce the risks, and empower community. This approach focuses on developing coping and problem solving skills in students (Zehr,2002). The purpose of this study is to explore how incorporating restorative practices in the classroom promote students' awareness of their behavior. Different classroom practices and curriculum were implemented to develop students' understanding of their behavior. I found that incorporating aspects of restorative practices and implementing lessons on mindfulness promoted positive interactions between students and provided an opportunity for students to develop common language to identify and understand one's own feelings.

