Alumna Receives Toxicology Award

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. – Kylee Eblin, a 2003 graduate of Illinois Wesleyan University, received the Society of Toxicology's Women in Toxicology Student Achievement Award on Wednesday, March 19.

Currently a pharmacology and toxicology doctoral student at The University of Arizona College of Pharmacy, Eblin is focusing her research on the potentially carcinogenic effects of low-level arsenic exposure on bladder cells.

Eblin is one of three students nationwide selected for the award given by The Society of Toxicology, the leading organization dedicated to creating a safer and healthier world by advancing the science of toxicology.
