Illinois Wesleyan's Reeley Receives Scholarship from National Association of Insurance Women

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. – Amanda Reeley, a senior math major at Illinois Wesleyan University, is one of 15 recipients in the country to earn the National Association of Insurance Women (NAIW) 2001-2002 College Scholarship.

NAIW's College Scholarship is rewarded to college upperclassmen that show promise and interest in pursuing a career in the insurance industry. Reeley said, "This scholarship has helped me a great deal in paying for the classes that facilitate my future goal of becoming an actuary."

NAIW is an association whose membership is open to people from all levels within the insurance industry who strive for and practice professionalism. While promoting mentoring, acceptance of change, and personal growth, NAIW serves its members by providing professional education. The organization believes that professional education can provide an environment in which to build business alliances as well as create opportunities to make connections with people of different career paths and levels of experience within the insurance industry.

Reeley, who graduated from Danville High School in 1999, is the daughter of Lorna Reeley. At the time of the scholarship, Reeley was employed as an intern for Allstate Insurance Company in Northbrook, Ill.
