Wayne Messmer '72 Speaker, Author, Vocalist

For more than two decades, Wayne Messmer's voice has become synonymous with professional sports in Chicago, Illinois. A fixture with such Windy City sports teams as the Cubs, White Sox, Blackhawks, Sting, and Wolves, Messmer has served as both public address announcer and soloist. His stirring rendition of the National Anthem is unmatched; his 1991 versions of both the National Anthem and O Canada prior to the National Hockey League All-Star Game at Chicago Stadium are legendary.

Messmer has become equally well known for his miraculous recovery from a near-fatal gunshot wound to the throat he suffered during an armed robbery in April 1994. Not only did that wound leave Messmer fighting for his life, but he was uncertain that he would speak again, let alone sing.

In an article in the Illinois Wesleyan University Alumni Magazine, Messmer recalled his emotions at the moment that he was shot:

"I was sitting there sweating, feeling embarrassed that I'm so sweaty, then realizing it wasn't sweat but blood. I was totally coherent but pretty much scared to death and thinking, I guess singing and speaking are out because I think my voice has just been killed. And I'm thinking of all the options I have — but dying is not one of them."

As it happened, singing and speaking were not out. Messmer recovered. Six months and five days after the shooting, Messmer walked onto the ice at Rosemont Horizon, his wife, Kathleen at his side, and performed the National Anthem prior to the Chicago Wolves hockey game. The Horizon went wild. The headline in the Chicago Sun-Times the next day read: "Messmer Upstages Wolves in Opener."

Messmer's story would be remarkable if it ended there. It doesn't. In 1999, Messmer paid visits to his two assailants in their jail cells. As he told the Sun-Times, "I felt that even though I had long since forgiven them in my mind, I wouldn't feel 100 percent truthful about it until I could sit down one on one, eye to eye and talk it through. I wanted them to see me as a person and not an object." Forgiveness is a major theme in his book, The Voice of Victory.

Messmer received a bachelor's degree in music education from Illinois Wesleyan in 1972 where he sang with the Jazz Ensemble. He went on to earn a master's degree in counseling from Loyola University Chicago and a Ph.D. in theocentric psychology from La Salle University.

Messmer's career has ranged from radio broadcaster to musical theatre performer to inspirational speaker to founding partner of a professional hockey team. Today, he is most closely associated with the Chicago Cubs and is widely known as "The Voice of Wrigley Field."

Film credits include a feature character role in the Universal Studios release, "The Babe," with John Goodman. He received a Chicago Emmy nomination for his TV work as the host of "Wolves TV." His motivational tape series, "Messmer-izing Moments" have been heard on radio and have been produced for commercial distribution and sale.

A reader's poll of Chicago's North Shore Magazine once listed Messmer as second only to Michael Jordan on a list of Chicago's favorite personalities.

Messmer is the founder of Wayne Messmer & Associates, a company specializing in the area of human development and interpersonal communications. Through a series of original workshops, the topics of life balance, time management, and value-centered management coaching are taught.

Marianne Carus

Editor

Marianne Carus began publishing CRICKET® magazine in 1973 with a clear premise: “The way to create in children a love of reading and an appreciation of good writing is to offer them beautifully illustrated, lively, well-written, interesting stories, sustaining a witty tone and a sense of humor. I am convinced that children will respond to quality if it’s not forced upon them, but presented in an engaging manner.”

Generations of children have benefited from Carus’s philosophy which has, over time, led to the creation of a series of top-quality publications for children. The Cricket Magazine Group, published by Carus Publishing Company, comprises magazines for children of all ages: CICADA®, CRICKET®, SPIDER®, LADYBUG®, and BABYBUG®. In a joint publication effort with Smithsonian Magazine, Cricket also publishes the non-fiction science magazines MUSE®, ASK®, and CLICK®.

All of the periodicals as well as Cricket Books, a trade book line that publishes chapter books and middle-grade novels, share the same commitment to high quality and standards of excellence. Some of the world’s best writers for children and adults have contributed to the family of magazines, and their writing has been complemented by illustrators from around the globe.

A native of Germany, Carus majored in English and German literature at the University of Freiburg and completed additional studies in French Literature and Art History at the Sorbonne and the University of Chicago. She writes and speaks about children’s literature, creative writing, and children’s magazines throughout the world. She has been a director on the American Library Service for Children’s Board and the International Board on Books for Young People’s Executive Board.

M. Blouke Carus

Business and Education Leader

M. Blouke Carus is a business leader whose lifelong passion for education is a model to be admired. Carus’ company, Peru, Illinois-based Carus Chemical Co., was founded in 1915 by his father. Its primary product is Cariox, a trademark name for potassium permanganate, an oxidizing agent that purifies air and drinking and waste water.

Carus earned a degree in electrical engineering from California Institute of Technology and then took postgraduate studies in chemistry at the University of Freiburg in Germany. He gained a deep appreciation for European-style education and has spoken out frequently and eloquently about the need to improve the American education process, particularly the importance of cooperative efforts involving government, business, and education.

Carus’s education activities include serving, by Presidential appointment, as a member of the National Council on Education Research, as Chairman of the Citizens’ Committee to establish Illinois Valley Community College, and as Chairman of the Illinois Manufacturers’ Association Education Committee. He established the International Baccalaureate North America in 1973 and was a Council member for International Baccalaureate in Geneva, Switzerland.

The Carus Corporation has been active within its local community in chemical education initiatives by sponsoring a summer chemistry camp and internships for college undergraduates, educators, and foreign students.

In partnership with his wife, Marianne Carus, Carus has been involved with Carus Publishing, which includes Open Court General Books. Carus has developed both a reading and language arts program based on the work of successful teachers and an elementary mathematics program.

Carus received the national Vanguard Award from the Chemical Educational Foundation in 2002 and was named Man of the Year by the Manufacturing Technology and Management Program at Illinois Institute of Technology in 2001.

Academic Colors and Regalia

Like judicial robes, the garments worn on academic occasions such as today's Commencement derive from the ecclesiastical garb of medieval England. The scholar in the Middle Ages, it must be remembered, was a clerk, and therefore required to wear the clerical gown and tonsure. Certainly, at Oxford and Cambridge, at least in the earliest times, the robes were monastic in origin, although the hood was adapted from a lay garment common to both sexes and all classes.

As early as the fourteenth Century, scholars of certain colleges were required by statute to wear "a decent habit" befitting a clerk and no evidence appears that there was much differentiation among undergraduates, bachelor's, master's and doctoral robes. All were black, commonly of lamb's wool; most were fur-lined for warmth, or at least fur trimmed; and the only mark of difference was in the fuller cut and ankle length of the master's gown. The cope, or closed cape, was also black and followed the style of the everyday mantle of the clergy.

Hoods were worn by all and probably had no academical significance at the beginning. By 1330-40 doctors began to adopt scarlet for their hoods, and by 1500, for their robes, with black retained by the masters of arts and bachelors of divinity. An act of Henry VIII in 1533 ratified the wearing of robes of other colors. Hoods were lined with silk and miniver fur, a custom surviving until the late seventeenth Century, but over the years distinctions were created to identify the various ranks and faculties.

Caps evolved in similar manner. The round velvet cap is still worn today in the full dress of doctors (except doctors in theology); the familiar square, or mortar-board, was copied in the early sixteenth Century from the thirteenth Century cap of the University of Paris. A third style also derives from Paris: a squared cap made by sewing four pieces of cloth with seams producing ridged edges, seen in modern times in the biretta of the clergy and the squared velvet cap of doctors of theology. The "who" and "how" of the wearing of caps produced numerous rulings, restrictions and change.

The Reformation repressed the brilliant silks, gold lace, costly furs and extravagant cut of academic robes, and the sober and more uniform styles are, for the most part, what we see today.

However, the growth of higher education in the United States during the nineteenth Century, when the great land grant colleges and universities were established under the Morrill Act, created a confusion of conflicting styles and colors. The easy identification of one's academic status by means of cut, fabric and color was no longer true.

In 1893 an intercollegiate commission presented a uniform code for caps, gowns and hoods to be worn in the United States. The mortarboard caps are the same for doctoral, master's and baccalaureate degrees, except that doctors' caps may be of velvet and may have a gold tassel. The bachelor's gown is marked by pointed sleeves, reaching to the knee, while the master's sleeve is squared at the ends, and longer. The doctoral robe is fullest, with rounded bell shaped sleeves marked by three velvet stripes.

The greatest symbolism of the academic costume is borne by the hood, which identifies the level of the degree, the faculty (or department of learning) in which it was earned, and the institution which awarded it. The size of the hood, its shape and the width of its velvet trim identify the level of the degree, with doctoral hoods naturally being the fullest, widest and longest. Faculty colors tell us the department.

Today's graduates will be wearing white for the College of Liberal Arts, pink for the School of Music, apricot for the School of Nursing, golden yellow for the sciences, and brown for the fine arts. Faculty members in the processional may be wearing light blue for education, copper for economics, drab for business and accountancy, orange for engineering, purple for law, lemon for library science, green for medicine, apricot for nursing, dark blue for philosophy, sage green for physical sciences, cream for social sciences and scarlet for theology, among the many available. The colors are mandatory on hoods, but may also be used on the tassels and/or the velvet on doctoral gowns.

The university or college is usually identified by the color of the hood lining. Two colors are frequently used, since there are approximately 2,000 degree-granting institutions in the United States. A few, such as Harvard, Yale, Princeton and the University of Chicago, use a single color. Illinois Wesleyan's green and white was adopted in 1888.

The Illinois Wesleyan University Mace, first carried at the 1969 inauguration of Dr. Robert S. Eckley as fifteenth president of the University, is also a striking symbol of the institution. Made of bronze for power and endurance and of walnut for organic strength, its cupola represents the bell tower of Old North Hall, Illinois Wesleyan's first building, which was erected in 1856 and demolished in 1967 to make way for Sheean Library. The bell suggests the Hedding Bell, a campus landmark since 1931, when it was installed on the IWU campus after peeling for generations at Hedding College, now defunct. The staff of the Mace is made from the walnut of Old North Hall, and the names of Illinois Wesleyan's presidents are engraved on its bronze base.

Prior to and during the Commencement ceremony, the Illinois Wesleyan Alumni Association will sponsor a hospitality tent serving complimentary beverages. The tent is located on the east side of the Eckley Quadrangle in front of Holmes Hall. A first-aid station is located in the tent. In the Shirk Center, these same services will be available in the lobby.

Near the Eckley Quadrangle, restrooms are located on the first floor of the following buildings: Shaw Hall, Center for Liberal Arts (wheelchair accessible), Memorial Center and Holmes Hall. In the Shirk Center, the restrooms are located to the north of the main lobby.

Following the ceremony, the Illinois Wesleyan Alumni Association invites you to a short reception in the tents on Eckley Quadrangle. If the ceremony is in the Shirk Center, the reception will be in the Activity Center.

Faculty marshalls for the Commencement ceremony are Professors Mona J. Gardner, Susan Stroyan and Jeff Frick. Student marshalls are the Vice President of the Junior Class, Jordan Ault, and Michelle Wright.
