

Apr 14th, 10:00 AM - 11:00 AM

Racial Socialization Practices & the Adolescent African American Student

Jazmyn Becker

Illinois Wesleyan University

Sumer Seiki, Faculty Advisor

Illinois Wesleyan University

Follow this and additional works at: <http://digitalcommons.iwu.edu/jwprc>

Becker, Jazmyn and Seiki, Faculty Advisor, Sumer, "Racial Socialization Practices & the Adolescent African American Student" (2012). John Wesley Powell Student Research Conference. 2.
<http://digitalcommons.iwu.edu/jwprc/2012/oralpresES/2>

This Event is brought to you for free and open access by The Ames Library, the Andrew W. Mellon Center for Curricular and Faculty Development, the Office of the Provost and the Office of the President. It has been accepted for inclusion in Digital Commons @ IWU by the faculty at Illinois Wesleyan University. For more information, please contact digitalcommons@iwu.edu.

©Copyright is owned by the author of this document.

Oral Presentation ES

RACIAL SOCIALIZATION PRACTICES & THE ADOLESCENT AFRICAN AMERICAN STUDENT

Jazmyn Becker and Sumer Seiki*
Educational Studies Department, Illinois Wesleyan University

Research on racial identity socialization of African American adolescents places emphasis on the family's racial socialization practices and its impact on racial identity development (Caughy, Nettles, & Lima, 2010). There is a lack of investigation in the ways the education institution impacts racial identity development. Yet, some studies found an adolescent's sense of racial identity to be a moderator between the student in relation to school engagement and bonding, self image, defense against discrimination, academic achievement, and group acceptance(Chabous,Riva,Green,Helair,2012; Dotterer, McHale, Crouter, 2009). A literary review and analysis of research in various fields including black psychology, was conducted to expand our understanding of the ways the education institution contributes to racial identity development of African American adolescents. My findings suggest that reinforcement of racial identity socialization practices in the classroom is necessary for positive racial identity development of African American adolescents.